Dist. 117 operating budget has surplus

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

In clarifying a written report about project budget for the upcoming school district, Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 business manager Bill Ahlers said, "The operating budget is actually $298,000 in surplus."

He explained that projecting the budget for the year is complicated by the major renovation project planned for the school's auditorium. The total budget, including this project is about $656,000.

Ahlers attributes some of the surplus to property tax revenue in the amount of $284,000 that should have been levied in 1999 coming in this year.

He added, "It's not totally uncommon for these payments to come in this way."

The public hearing for the school budget will be held on Sept. 7 at 6:30 p.m. at the high school.

Ahler said student enrollment is expected to increase by 100-150 students over last year.

At its meeting, the school board was advised that it may have to sell tax anticipation notes to meet expense obligations that are due before funds are received from state support and taxes.

Superintendent Dennis Hockney said that ballot language was discussed at the board meeting, but could not be finalized until the end of the month when it is determined what percentage, if any, of a $12.6 million grant will be awarded to the school if the referendum on the ballot passes.

"When we find out how much we will get for the school construction grant, we can reduce the amount of money we will be asking for from residents in the referendum," said Hockney. "This grant money will not go through unless the ballot referendum passes, however."

High school conditions deemed good in survey

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Overall, Antioch residents feel the conditions of Antioch Community High School District 117 school are good. Nearly 90 percent of respondents to a phone survey conducted by the Attitude Research Company felt that Antioch Community High School provides a safe learning environment and keeps up with computers and technology.

Fifty percent felt that the school successfully prepares non-college bound graduates for employment, and 70 percent felt that students are well prepared for college.

More than half of those responding felt that tax dollars are spent efficiently and that cutbacks in staff are avoided.

With regard to the issues of discipline and classroom order, as well as drug and substance abuse, better than 60 percent indicated that the school district is doing a good job.

The only areas receiving under a 50 percent approval rating deal with population and classroom size. Only 47.5 percent felt the district does a good job of keeping class size from being too large, and 42.2 percent felt enough is being done to keep up with population growth.

The survey indicates that 59.9 percent would support increasing the education fund by 27 cents per $100 of equalized assessed valuation.

According to the survey, 57.6 percent of those polled would vote positively to remodel the performing arts and girls' locker room at the current high school site.

Board of improvements meeting rescheduled

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The board of local improvements has rescheduled its special meeting for Aug. 21 at 6:30 p.m. at Village Hall.

The purpose of the meeting is to get water and sewer lines to the Anest and Deercrest properties. At a village board meeting, village attorney Ken Clark noted that the county is responsible for the sewer, and the village is responsible for the water.

Development questions continue

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The initial proceedings for a zoning change request on 134.3 acres of land owned by Donald and Kevin Boylan along Grimm Rd. will be picked up on Aug. 17 at 7:30 p.m. at Village Hall.

The issue needed to be continued due to notification irregularities that left resident Ed Litchfield, whose property is in the center of the 134.3 acres, without appropriate notice of the request to change zoning.

The Boylans' property is sectioned into five parcels and runs from Rte. 83 on the west to Rte. 173 on the east.

Litchfield and other residents were concerned that property currently zoned for agriculture will become commercial B-3 retail zoning which would allow for a "big box" chain store such as Home Depot or Wal-Mart. Certain parcels of the property may be zoned M-1 industrial, and B-3/M-1 blended PUD (planned unit development) if the petitioner's requests are granted.

At the previous meeting Litchfield said, "I've been here for 43 years and now its going to be all factories—unbelievable."

The current property owners have a potential buyer interested in putting in a "big box" store. The zoning requests for the remainder of the property are speculative.

Village attorney Ken Clark explained that is common for a developer to request zoning before requesting annexation as the desire for annexation will diminish if zoning isn't granted first.

Developer should pay, says Ring

Though Ken Neumann of Neumann Homes contended that the proposed development for the Anest property would "enhance traffic flow in the long haul," Antioch Township highway supervisor Mark Ring has some concern about the roads under his charge.

Ring said, "I don't know how Neumann could say that we (the township highway department) haven't been in touch with them

(the developers). We spoke with John Borucki, who I think is a vice president of Neumann Homes, as recently as the afternoon of the meeting."

Ring is concerned because Savage Rd. to the north and south, Miller Rd. to the east and White Rd. to the west are the roads that will access the development. All three are maintained by the township.

"We want to make sure that they (the roads) are upgraded to our specifications so they don't fall apart," said Ring.

He said that he felt it was Neumann Homes' responsibility to pay for the upgrades and not the taxpayers'.

"The township doesn't have a say in if this is approved, but we should have a say in how the roads are maintained," Ring concluded.

Lindenfest begins

By BRENDA BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

Lindenfest, scheduled to kick off on Aug. 10 with the Miss Lindenhurst pageant, continues with varied entertainment, carnival rides, food and fun Aug. 11-13.

Aug. 12 becomes particularly memorable with a parade of community "notables." Amidst the fire trucks, Boy Scout troops, park district programs and other expected participants, one can find a few surprises.

The Lindenhurst Village Board contingent includes "Mr. & Mrs. Bingo," while "Twinkle Man" is slated to ride with the Lindenfest Committee.

Pageant queens from as far away as Beach Park and as long ago as 1992 grace the parade route, which starts at Lake Shore Dr. and Spring Hill Lane at 10 a.m. The eclectic procession winds its way through Sprucewood, Witchwood Lane, Laurel Dr. and Beck, finally heading down Sand Lake Rd. to end at Valley Dr.

The Antioch Community High School Band and the Great Lakes Naval Band will provide musical accompaniment.

The Lindenhurst-Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce, as well as numerous businesses will represent themselves in the parade.

Political representation makes an appearance as well, with everyone from incumbent county representatives to judicial candidates strutting their stuff.

Later in the day, Mayor Paul Baumunk swings an auctioneer's gavel as he brings various contributed items to the block.

Throughout the event, entertainment will be provided by radio vans from 103.1 WXXY, 92.7 Kiss FM and 102.3 WXL, as well as musical groups, stilt-walker Kevin Adair, illusionist Magic Dave and Austin Powers impersonator.

Carnival rides, games and bingo provide amusement for all ages.

Food presents itself in the form of refreshment or embarrassment—as in spaghetti, ice cream or chocolate pie-eating contests.

All proceeds from the event go to produce the next one, a year from now.

Lindenfest hours are 6-10 p.m. on Aug. 10, 6 p.m.-midnight on Aug. 11, noon-midnight on Aug. 11 and noon-7 p.m. on Aug. 12.

Four local boys journey from Cubs to Eagle together

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Four local boys have made the journey from Cub Scouts all the way to Eagle together.

Brian Weston, 18, of Lindenhurst; Conrad Adkins, 18, of Antioch; Andy Dalgaard, 18, of Antioch; and Kevin Klean, 17, of Spring Grove, will have a combined ceremony to move up to the rank of Eagle Scout on Aug. 13 in Lindenhurst.

Linda Veach, wife of scout master Wayne Veach, and advancement chairperson for Antioch Troop 92 said, "It's really neat because these four boys have been together since they were Cub Scouts, and they decided they should make Eagle together."

During the ceremony, the boys will be presented with the Eagle Scout Challenge which will tell them what is expected of them as Eagles.

The boys will be called up to the presentation area two at a time. "The mother first pins the Eagle pin on her son, and then the son will present his mother with a special pin," explained Linda Veach.

To make the rank of Eagle, the boys each had to complete a project approved by both the scout master and council that would benefit the community. Once the project is approved, the scout working toward Eagle takes on a leadership role and guides other scouts, friends and family members through the work of the project.

Weston, who is an Antioch Community High School (ACHS) graduate, took on the project of replacing damage or missing tree markers at the Gage Brothers Park where the sawmill is located.

Signs needed to be replaced in front of trees that had been donated to the park. The signs named the type of tree (or bush) as well as the name of the person who donated it.

The brick signs were made by a sign maker and then set these brick markers in concrete. Weston spent 142 hours on the project.

Dalgaard, also an ACHS graduate, took on the project of clearing about 2 miles of trails with the 62 acres of the Northern Illinois Conservation Club.

His group pulled stumps, removed debris and rocks, and trimmed back the trees and other vegetation along the trail. Additionally, they cleared an extra 10 foot radius shooting area for the club.

He chose this project for the safety of those who use the area. The project took 128 hours to complete.

Adkins, who also graduated from ACHS, followed behind Dalgaard and landscaped the trails that had been cleared by his fellow scout with wood chips.

The 2 to 3-foot wide trails are now protected from erosion during the rainy season as well as helping to keep hikers feet mud free as they use the trails.

Adkins spent 85 hours making sure his project was completed properly.

Klean, a Richmond-Burton Community High School senior, chose for his project to build, sand and varnish five child-size picnic tables for preschoolers at Grace Lutheran Church in Richmond.

It took his group 97.5 hours to build and complete these picnic tables.

Linda Veach said, "We give the boys a guideline and let them decide the project and the appropriate amount of time to complete it."

Program improves teaching abilities

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch resident Sharon Bluma is one of the first to participate in a program called Foundations of Science, a graduate program offered by Shimer College, which is aimed at helping elementary and middle school teachers gain a deeper understanding and appreciation of science by viewing it in its historic development.

Bluma is a registered nurse who is completing her certificate of education at Trinity College.

"The teacher, Dr. James Donovan, made me stretch," said Bluma. "He pushed me. Everything has always been so easy, but in this class I really work hard. It's incredible. I feel Dr. Donovan had me working two times as hard as I'm used to working in a classroom."

The goal of the course is not only to know science, but also to know how to teach and explain science.

"This background is incredible because basically I'm preparing lesson plans and science projects in the labs and it all comes together," said Bluma.

Scout House on the move

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

It's reported that the Antioch Park Department building known as the Scout House is on the move.

Linda Veach, advancement chairperson for Boy Scout Troop 92 said, "I spoke with (village administrator) Tim Wells last week, and it looks like the Scout House will be available for the majority of both girl and boy scout activities by the end of September—hopefully."

The programs currently being run out of the Scout House by the Parks Dept. are being moved to the new building inclusive of the former Griffin home. This will free up the Scout House for scouting events.

According to Veach, the village is going to dig a new basement at the corner of Poplar and Cunningham and physically move the building to its new foundation.

"The village will still own and maintain the building," added Veach.

Antioch teen in the news again

Jenn Kerner is in the news again. Not surprisingly, the 17-year-old did very well in the 2000 Miss Teen of Illinois Scholarship and Recognition Program.

The program was held in Rock Island, Ill. Of the 159 teenage girls who participated from across the state, Kerner was named second runner-up.

Kerner is in contention for the Miss Teen of Illinois title. The Miss Teen of Illinois program is not a pageant. Each candidate is scored in six areas including scholastic record, achievement and service to school and community, personal development of talents and skills, a general awareness written test, personality projection in formal wear and the judge's interview.

The young woman selected as Miss Teen of Illinois received a $1,000 cash scholarship, a $500 educational savings bond and a $250 grant to present to the high school.

Fox Waterway to upgrade buoy system with newest models

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

If warning buoys could be compared to vehicles, the Fox Waterway Agency (FWA) will be replacing a sedan with a luxury model.

The five-year phase-in program began this spring, with new centerline buoys marking the north-south and east-west designated boating lanes. New channel makers and no-wake buoys at the grass Lake Rd. bridged, the mouth of the Fox River leading to the Chain O' Lakes State Park and the mouth of the Grass Lake-Lake Marie Channel.

"The buoys are rougher and have warranties. The older ones were hallow and did not do any damage to a boat. With the new ones, you do not dare hit them," said Ingrid Enriquez, FWA executive director.

The new buoys have solar lights that flash white signals up to two miles away. The lights themselves cost $450 of the $1,200 cost.

"They are ocean buoys. The inland buoys would get beat up," Enriquez said.

Of the 450 buoys placed last year, 225 were hit.

The FWA advisory committee discussed the buoy issues at its last meeting, in Johnsbury and at Stanton Bay in Fox Lake.

Some of the features of the new buoys are that they are 6 feet, 1 inch in height; weigh 125 pounds; 30-inch diameter; closed-cell foam and steel; 200-pound anchor and five-year warranty and 10-year life-expectancy.

The older buoys were 4 to 6 feet tall, weighed 63 pounds and were made of polyethylene plastic.

The FWA plans to purchase more of the buoys each year as its $40,000 annual buoy budget allows.

Eight new centerline buoys replaced the 25 centerlines used last year in Grass Lake.

Homeowners who live along the river and Chain O' Lakes may purchase the old buoys at cost. Applications are available at the FWA headquarters in Fox Lake. Cost per unit buoy is $100 and includes "slow, no wake" markings, as well as tackle to anchor the buoy. The homeowner is responsible for raking the buoy in and out seasonally.

Antioch Community High School (ACHS) superintendent Dennis Hockney said, "We will

Marcia Bennecke has been hired for the Gateway program in Lake Villa which is under ACHS control.

Debbie Rummel was promoted to department chair for physical education, health and driver education.

"We are looking for talented people," said Hockney. "We want to spend the time up front getting to know about these people (prospective employees) so that we don't have to spend the time afterward."

RESCHEDULED

"This needs to be done to implement the settlement agreement with the Anest property and to meet the obligation with Deercrest," said Clark.

"We have to do a special assessment," he added. "The cost of the project is estimated at $5 million, and the taxpayers aren't going to pay for it."

Clark said that the Deercrest development is willing to pay the expense even if the current proposal for the Anest property before the board is turned down. He said, "They will pay the cost alone and then recapture the money later from those who would benefit from the services."

Some of the properties in that area along Rte. 173 have property lines that end at the right of way for the highway. Others have property lines that run to the middle of the road.

Clark said, "We have to get permission to run the water lines through the properties that run to the middle of the road. If they won't give permission, then we have to condemn for the easement."

Under statute and as part of the special assessment, which can only be done by a governmental body, the village would have the authority to condemn for the water line.

Clark then explained that the entire property would not be condemned, but only the small strip needed for the easement.

If the board of local improvements passes the resolution on Aug. 21, a public meeting has been tentatively scheduled for Sept. 5 at 7 p.m.

No valid driver's license

Jon A. Richko, 20, of 22071 North Ave., was arrested for driving without a valid driver's license on Aug. 4 at 11:27 p.m. at 966 N. Rte. 59.

Police pulled over Richko for failing to signal to turn twice consecutively as he turned into the Jewel parking lot at the corner of Rtes. 59 and 173.

While speaking to the driver, police saw a blue power amp protruding from the seat.

The driver's identifiers were checked through LEADS/SOS with Richko coming back with no valid driver's license.

Richko was placed under arrest and secured in the squad car.

Police then spoke to the passenger, a juvenile. He was requested to exit the vehicle while police prepared a vehicle tow/inventory form.

The power amp was examined and appeared to be similar to one reported stolen in the recent rash of motor vehicle burglaries in the village.

Police also noted two disc cases similar to ones reported stolen, as well as cellular phone and a brown leather wallet.

The officer reportedly detained the passenger for further investigation due to the property found in the vehicle being similar to the reported stolen property, and the suspicious nature of this traffic stop.

Richko was brought through booking procedures. Both subjects were turned over to the officer investigating the vehicle burglaries.

The juvenile was driven home and his mother was advised of this incident.

Richko was released on the required bond pending his court date.

He was issued citations for failure to signal and no valid driver's license.

James G. Sledz, 35, of 4716 Thatcher in Naperville, was issued citations for speeding and driving with no valid driver's license.

Sledz posted a $100 cash bond and was released pending an Aug. 23 court date.

Driving complaint/criminal damage to property

Daniel A. Goines, 18, of 282 Anita Terrace in Antioch, was issued citations for criminal damage to property, driving too fast for conditions, improper lane usage and expired registration on Aug. 5 at 7:21 p.m.

A resident in the 700 block of Blackman Terrace in Antioch complained to police when a car that was traveling too fast as it approached a curve spun out of control. The car came to a stop over the sidewalk with the front tires 2 feet over the sidewalk and in a neighbor's front lawn.

The car reportedly "tore up the grass and spewed dirt onto the roadway" as it backed off the lawn and back onto the street.

DUI

Christine L. Brice-Duha, 36, of 23560 Briar Terrace in Antioch, was arrested on Aug. 6 at 2:56 a.m. for driving while under the influence of alcohol and for driving with a suspended driver's license.

Brice-Duha was arrested on Rte. 173 west of Talman after being seen swerving over the center line. She was taken to the Antioch Police Dept. and brought through booking procedures.

She was issued citations for two counts of improper lane usage, operating an uninsured vehicle, driving while suspended, driving with a blood alcohol level above .08.

She was released on the proper cash bond pending Sept. 5 court date.

Warrant arrest

Katherine A. Schultz, 37, of 286 Anita Terrace, was arrested on a warrant through the Lake County Sheriff's Dept. for theft carrying a $10,000 bond with 10 percent applying on Aug. 6 at 1:40 a.m.

The Antioch Police Dept. dispatched an officer to Schultz's home in attempt to locate her on an outstanding warrant issued through the Lake County Sheriff's Dept.

The warrant was confirmed through LEADS.

Schultz was taken into custody and held to await transport to Lake County Jail.

LAKE VILLA

Possession of drugs

Amy Patterson, 20, of Genoa City, Wis., was stopped by Lake Villa Police on Aug. 3 at 2:59 p.m. at Rte. 132 west of Offield when an officer noticed her car had a loud muffler. The driver produced a license. The officer observed two men sleeping in the back of the car. A search of the vehicle turned up marijuana and beer in the car, and marijuana in Patterson's purse. The two passengers were also arrested. Brian Schelberger, 20, of Salem, Wis., was charged with consumption of alcohol by a minor. Christopher J. Waterman, 20, of Twin Lakes, Wis., was charged with possession of alcohol by a minor. Patterson was charged with possession of cannabis and a muffler violation. All are scheduled to appear at Grayslake Branch III on Sept. 13 at 3 p.m.

Firefighters play golf for good cause

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Quadrant 2 Firefighters will hold their 10th annual golf outing on Aug. 11-12 with a shotgun start of 1 p.m. at the Antioch Golf Course.

Firefighters from Antioch, Fox Lake, Grayslake, Lake Villa, Newport and Round Lake Fire Depts. make up Quadrant 2.

Proceeds from the event will go support two worthy causes.

Some of the money will support Illinois Fire Safety Alliance Burn camp that is held each year at Camp Duncan.

Chief engineer Lee Shannon of the Antioch Fire Dept. said, "This camp offers children who have been injured by fire a place to go and enjoy the summer and just to be a kid. The camp has medical staff on site to tend to the needs of the children, and camp counselors who help organize activities as well as spending time with the campers."

According to Lt. Chris Lienhardt of the Antioch Fire Dept., other money will be used to purchase an air boat (similar to the ones used in the Everglades) for the use of the Quadrant 2 Fire Departments to ease both water and ice rescues.

"This is the 10th year anniversary of the Quad 2 outing, so we are actually having two full days of golf, giving everyone a chance to come out and support a worthwhile cause," said Chief Dennis Volling of the Antioch Fire Dept.

Prizes will be awarded for the longest drive, longest putt, closest to the marshmallow driving contest and putting challenge.

Following the second day of the outing, there is a dinner at Maravella's Restaurant in Fox Lake.

Registration takes place from 11-12:30 on Aug. 11. For more information, call Lee Shannon at 395-5511.

WHAT'S NEW AT THE LIBRARY

Blue Poppy
Skye Kathleen Moody

Moody's second novel with Federal Fish and Wildlife Agent Venus Diamond opens with a rash of murders in and near a fragile meadow in Yodeler National Wildlife Preserve, on the coast of the Olympic Peninsula. Because the first murder took place on federal land, Diamond and a team of agents initiate the investigation. As more murders occur, Diamond must determine whether the suspects and motives are connected to a perfume business that produces the rare blue-poppy scent, the peninsula's endangered flora and fauna, or a proposal to the secretary of interior to sell the meadow.

Although Moody's writing could be leaner, "Blue Poppy" is filled with interesting facts about the Pacific Northwest and the perfume and fashion industries. In addition, the novel is an intriguing mix of environmental thriller and police procedural, with sympathetic characters; gritty, realistic portraits of police work and bureaucratic politics; and an unexpected solution to the mystery.

The Antioch Public Library lists the following new mystery titles that belong to series with the same protagonist.

Agatha Raisin and the Fairies of Fryfam

New marketing consulting service brings expertise to area

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

TL Neumann Consulting, Inc. is new to the area, but its founder is not. The business provides marketing consulting and research as well as product development for both consumer products and business-to-business pursuits.

Founder Tamara Neumann said, "I selected the tagline 'the means to progress' for my business because I understand after working in industry that in order to get things accomplished you often times need an outside resource to offer a fresh way of approaching the problem or simply a resource to help get the project completed in the time frame allowed."

Neumann's services include product development consulting in the areas of exploration, concept development, positioning development, branding and pricing.

Additionally, custom marketing research is offered to supplement this service including phone, mail or personal interview questionnaires and focus group moderating.

"Focus group moderating involves talking to potential customers about a product or service," explained Neumann. "This way the client can see through a one way mirror to the customers' thoughts."

Sometimes Neumann's consultation is used by businesses wanting to assess the viability of a new product or service. Other times a business may need to alter the product or service being offered to make it more attractive to consumers.

The company is interested in becoming the area's marketing resource for product and business development expertise and for projects with timelines that cannot be met with existing resources.

Neumann holds a master's of business administration in marketing and a bachelor's of science and chemical engineering. She has held a variety of laboratory and marketing positions for 3M Company in St. Paul, Minn.

TL Neumann Consulting, Inc. can be reached at 838-5992.

55 Alive class offered Aug. 15, 18

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Through AARP, the eight-hour 55 Alive—Mature Driving course is being offered over two days on Aug. 15 and again on Aug. 18 from 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

The course is intended to help seniors maintain their independence through their automobiles.

Resident volunteer Mollie Clark said, "It is important to raise the awareness of seniors about certain changes that may need to be made due to our physical changes."

The course provides eight hours of classroom time that is generally broken into two four-hour segments. "There is a lot of material to cover, and it's hard to stay focused for the entire course. That's why we break it up," said Clark.

Material is presented through workbooks, pamphlets and films. Clark goes out of her way to get additional pamphlets from Shell on topics such as "Alone Behind the Wheel" that she feels will be of value to those taking the class.

The 55 Alive courses are generally taught seven times a year.

The fee is $10 per person. This upcoming class will take place at the First National Bank Employee-Owned.

For more information or to register for the class, call the bank at 838-2265.

The Center For Enriched Living plans open houses

The Center For Enriched Living (The Center) has announced a series of open house events aimed at familiarizing the staffs and members of area residential facilities, organizations and other agencies serving people with developmental disabilities, with its beautiful and highly functional new home. Custom designed and built to match the specific needs of The Center's members, staff and volunteers, the 20,000-square-foot building was opened at 280 Saunders Rd. in Riverwoods.

"We want to make sure everybody who may benefit from participating in our life enrichment events, programs and other services has the chance to experience The Center firsthand," said the organization's outreach coordinator Jim Finlay. "We regularly collaborate with nearby residential facilities for people with developmental disabilities, as well as workshops, other community centers and special recreation associations to maximize the opportunities for all."

The Center's open houses will allow visitors the opportunity to take part in sample program activities, such as cooking, crafts, fitness, homelife and more. They are scheduled for Aug. 15 from 7-8:30 p.m., Aug. 17 from 1:30-3 p.m., Aug. 23 from 1:30-3 p.m. and Aug. 24 from 7-8:30 p.m.

The Center is a non-profit organization dedicated to serving the year-round social enrichment and skill enhancement needs of developmentally disabled members and their families. Through personalized programs, The Center provides a place where its members feel a sense of belonging, form lasting friendships, and develop the skills needed to achieve personal goals and fulfilled lives within their communities.

Organizations and/or independently living adults interested in registering to attend an open house at any of the above listed dates/times, should RSVP with Jim Finlay, The Center's outreach coordinator at 948-7001.

Teen places in skate competition

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

In-line skaters from all over the Chicagoland area participated in the Aggressive Skaters Association (A.S.A.) In-line Skating Competition.

Resident Jeremy Harper, 16, placed fourth in the Expert Street category.

There are three levels of competition: 12 and under/beginners, open class/intermediate and expert. A.S.A. leaves it up to the individual skater to determine his division. Those skating in the expert category skated for a chance to move on to the regional competition in Detroit.

The event was the last qualifying event for the Midwest region.

The street course uses all of the equipment at the skate park. The vert/mini-ramp contest features tricks. SK8 Grayslake was recommended to A.S.A. by local professional Mike Radebaugh.

From the regional competition, skaters have a chance to compete at the North American Amateur Championships in Las Vegas this October for a chance to turn professional. A.S.A. is the sanctioning body for the X-games broadcast on ESPN and the Gravity Games on NBC.

The car—it's really never mine

Most of us who warrant a valid driver's license have an automobile nestled out in our driveway, garage or carport. Of course there are an awful lot of those who do not have a valid driver's license who seem to own a vehicle as well, as reported by the police report section of the newspaper—but that is a whole column in itself.

We all become somewhat attached to our particular vehicles and feel a bit violated if somebody else invades our driver's seat. Husbands and wives should be very aware of the unwritten rule: leave thy spouse's car alone. It's bad enough when the honeymoon is over, that Wifey almost immediately starts noticing golf clubs, fishing gear and baseball paraphernalia in the trunk of her vehicle. Along with the irritation of spending the first 30 miles of her journey readjusting the mirrors and seats, she then returns to her car after an afternoon of power shopping at the mall, pops the trunk and is greeted with nine irons, a tackle box and baseball spikes.

Just about the time Hubby is broken of this annoying trait, along comes the babies and Mom upgrades her vehicle to accommodate her growing family with a mini-van. During this phase of Mom's life the cargo area resembles the back storeroom of Babies R Us. She saddles up to the back of her oversized car with a week's worth of groceries in 73 brown paper bags, opens the hatch and is confronted by the sassy seat, the portable crib and the back-up breast pump all right there next to the spare tire. Of course it's not like she can just open up the doors and store the newly purchased food on the seats because they are chock full of car seats, stuffed animals, day old Happy Meal boxes and wayward Cheerios.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

As the children grow, so do their toys and Mom graduates to a supposedly roomy sports utility vehicle (we all know how bogus that is), as she is now expected to tote around Johnny's soccer equipment, Susie's gymnastic mats and baby Joey's T-ball batting helmet and bat, leaving little room for her bagged items. And then the offspring reach the age where they tote their own driver's license, and the spare set of keys to Mom's car. And so the cycle continues as Mom is forced to conform with the growing needs of her family.

At what point in Mom's life does her car become her own? Perhaps once the kids are grown and, hopefully supporting themselves, and Hubby is happily retired with a permanent tee-off time, she will purchase a little two-seater spitfire with barely enough leg room for a gnat. The problem is, where does she put the walker and the wheel chair?

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

The thrill is gone

Am I the only person in America who is sick of expansion in professional sports? Let's take a look at the facts. Major League Baseball has seen a dramatic increase in the number of home runs hit during the 1990s. Many people will argue that the baseball itself is "juiced," making it easier for today's athlete to hit the ball farther. Nonsense, I say.

This decade, the number of teams in the majors has increased from 26 to 30, which may seem insignificant, but it has had a major impact on the quality of America's Pastime. Consequently, 16 percent of today's big-leaguers would have still been in the minor leagues prior to expansion.

While the game's fan-base may be growing as a result of expansion, the talent has become watered-down. Pitchers who have no business playing at the highest level now have the opportunity to do so—prematurely. Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa never would have hit 70 and 66 homers in a season, respectively, if not for expansion. Pitchers who are career minor-leaguers now have the honor of serving up balls that come through the strike zone looking as big as a volleyball—nice and fat.

Both the Cubs and White Sox have a World Series drought that spans nearly a century. Expansion does nothing to help this. Do we have to have a team in every state before people realize the sport has become a game of back-yard Whiffle Ball?

If Commissioner Bud Selig is so concerned about speeding up the game, expansion is doing nothing to help his cause. Besides, if a game takes 4 hours to play, so what? Part of baseball's beauty is the lack of a time limit. Fans want quality regardless of quantity.

Fans should want to spend their money to see the best-of-the-best. Not a hybridized version of the world's greatest game. But baseball is not the lone culprit.

In the National Hockey League, making the playoffs used to be the rule, not the exception. The Atlanta Thrashers? The Florida Panthers? The Columbus Blue Jackets? Let's not forget that there are now professional teams in San Jose, Tampa Bay, Minnesota and Anaheim. As I write this column, I hope that I don't forget any teams, because God knows there are too many of them.

It's not surprising that last season goal-scoring was nearing an all-time low in the NHL (excuse me while I take a nap). These days the kids are playing with the big-boys. Putting a puck in the net is like trying to throw an egg through a brick wall. In the NHL Finals last year, Dallas and New Jersey played over 110 minutes of scoreless hockey. Fun to watch once in a while? Yes. Fun to watch all year? No.

Basketball and football teams are following suit. Professional sports in the United States are becoming a joke.

In today's society, sports franchises are no more than incredibly profitable businesses. Athletes no longer play for pride, or for the love of the game. On July 23, former Sox catcher Carlton Fisk's induction to the Hall of Fame was symbolic in so many ways. He played 2,226 games, spanning a 22-year career that included three hand surgeries, five knee surgeries, broken bones and countless bruises. To the best of my knowledge he never once made more than $3 million in a season. Today, a salary that large is common.

While touring the Hall of Fame a couple of months ago, Fisk looked at a dented catcher's mask he used to wear.

"You see those?" Fisk asked. "A hammer didn't put those there."

I recall watching him one time as he addressed the crowd at Comiskey Park, for what would be the last game of his career. To quote the man I feel epitomizes what a professional athlete should be, he said, "and I feel as though I've played hard, I played with intensity, I played with enthusiasm, but most important of all, I played to win."

Fisk may be the last of a dying breed. I just have the feeling many professional athletes today don't share his beliefs, his work ethic, or most importantly his love for the game. And that, folks, is sad.

Hoop dreams come true for area youths

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

As the result of the Ray Meyer Summer Basketball Camp essay writing contest sponsored by Lakeland Newspapers, five area youths will get the chance to learn from the best while enjoying the camping atmosphere.

It all takes place when boys ages 9-17 gather for one of four sessions of camp, which is located on Little Fork Lake on the Chain O'Lakes near Rhinelander and Eagle River, Wisconsin, and is surrounded by 66 acres and 3,000 feet of shoreline.

Campers can attend any one of four sessions, with the first running July 10-17. A second session runs July 17-24, followed by July 23-31 and finally, July 31-August 7.

"I want to improve my game and hopefully get better," said Island Lake's Tom Bacon, age 13. Bacon, who attends Wauconda Middle School and plans on trying out for his eighth-grade basketball team this winter, who attended the July 31-Aug. 7 session.

Mundelein's Bryan George, a 10-year-old sixth-grader at Hawthorn Middle School, has played in some leagues before but still wants to improve on his game.

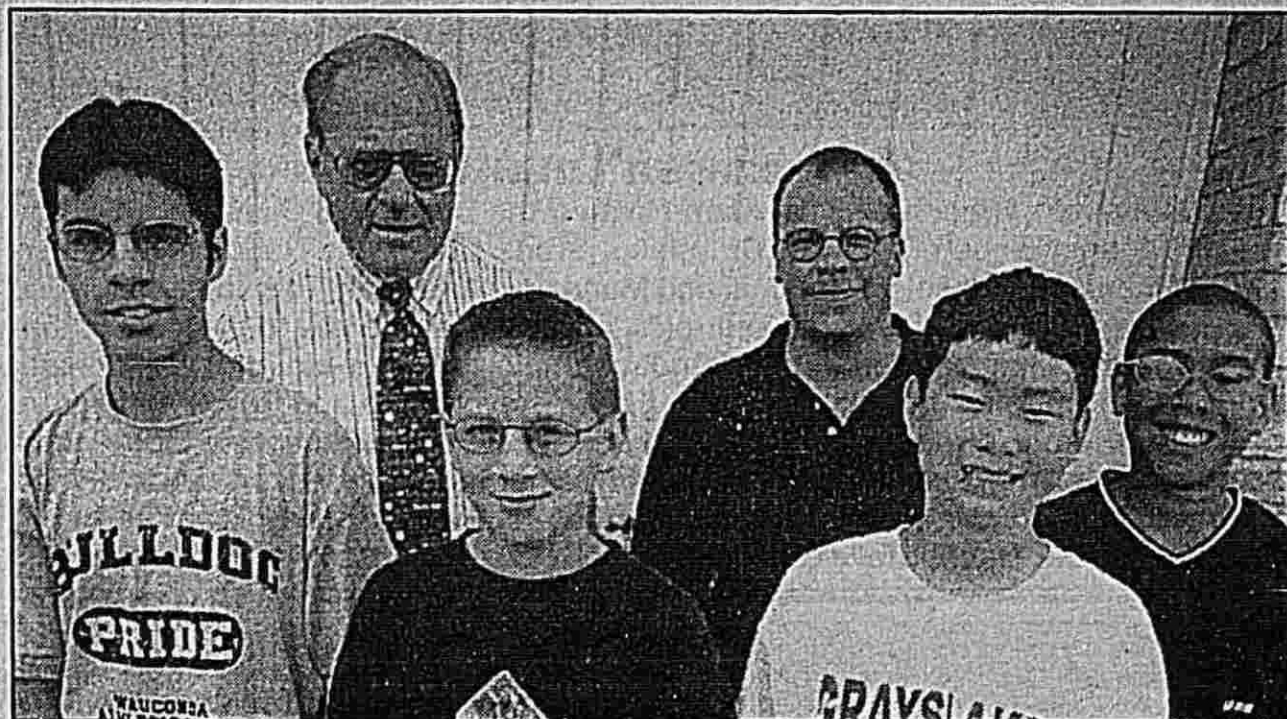

"Hopefully I'll learn a lot from a big-time coach like Ray Meyer," he said. George will also be trying out for his school's team this winter. He attended the July 24-31 session.

Two Grayslake products will also be making the trip. Drew Gedemer, 11, is a sixth-grader at Frederick Intermediate School, went to the July 17-24 camp.

"I'd really like to polish my skills," said Gedemer, who played on the park district traveling team last year and looks toward making his school's team this year. "Someday, I would love to play for Grayslake High School and then college."

Ernie Washington, 13, recently moved to Grayslake from Virginia and will be entering the eighth-grade at Woodland Middle School.

"I obviously want to get better," said

Washington, who also plans on playing both on the high school and then collegiate levels. "It's going to be a lot of fun. I'm looking forward to learning and meeting some new people." Washington was enrolled in the last session (July 31-Aug. 7) as well.

The fifth and final winner was Libertyville's David Wisner, 14, who was vacationing in Arizona at the time of the photo. It's extra special for David, who will be trying out for the freshman basketball team at Libertyville this upcoming season.

"It means a lot to be one of the winners because my father also went to Ray Meyer's camp and said it was the best," said Wisner from Arizona. "Plus, I'm looking forward to meeting Coach Meyer. I just want to improve my skills as well as have a great time. I heard it was a really nice place."

Lakeland Publisher William Schroeder, Sr. said that Lakeland will hold the essay contest again next year.

"We just hope to build on this," he said. "We're also happy we can be a part of helping mark Coach Meyer's half-century of contributions."

Besides basketball, activities include swimming, boating and a game room. Travel arrangements by bus are sent upon receipt of deposit.

"It's a chance to upgrade your skills by playing against better competition," said The Coach. "There's also many activities offered outside of basketball. The kids always have a great time. We've had a lot of great players pass through here."

And chances are, more have been added to the list.

Cromeans' 'bad day' still good enough to post win

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

If only we could all have a bad day on the course yet still win a golf tournament.

Just ask Lake Villa's Brett Cromeans.

Cromeans struggled with an 8-over-par 80 in Tuesday's second round but his two-day total of 159 was still good enough to win the Boys 17-19 age Division in the 17th Annual Renwood Junior Golf Open, held at Renwood Golf Club in Round Lake Beach.

"I was hitting my short wedges close and that pretty much saved me because my putter has been struggling," said Cromeans, who recorded four birdies during each of his two rounds. "It was pretty hot out there today and the rough is thick. I think some of my local knowledge helped me out as well."

Cromeans, who captured the same title two years ago while finishing runner-up the year before that, makes Renwood his home track.

The College of Lake County sophomore-to-be currently works full-time and is competing in the U.S. Amateur qualifying in two weeks at Lake Bluff Golf Club.

"I'm just trying to have fun and play as much as possible," said Cromeans.

Cromeans edged out Ingleside's Derek Hartmann, who finished with 82-83 (165).

Taking the third-place trophy was McHenry's Brian Placzkowski with a 166 (84-82).

Meanwhile, Chris Bouchard, who will be a sophomore at Zion-Benton High School starting this fall, captured the title in the boys 14-16 age division after finishing fourth last year.

In his first round, Bouchard blistered the 6,048-yard course with three birdies en route to a 2-over 74.

"I just played bad today," said Bouchard, who closed with an 81 for a 155 total.

"I couldn't make any putts. I was fortunate because Pat (Henderson) made a great run today. A couple of bad shots and the tournament is his."

Bouchard did eagle the 270-yard par-4

13th hole after sticking his drive six feet from the cup.

Henderson, a resident of McHenry, closed with a 1-over 73 after opening with an 85.

Taking third place was Tim Goodson, also of McHenry. Goodson fired rounds of 85-84 for a 169 total.

Lake Villa was well accounted for as Joe Kinney carded rounds of 80-86 (166) to take home the title in the boys 12-13 age group. Timothy Kay (176) of Bartlett finished runner-up after posting rounds of 91-85 and Round Lake Park's Josh Damore won the third-place hardware after beating Lindenhurst's Chris Acuff on the second hole of a sudden death playoff. Both players finished with a two-day total of 179.

In the girls 14-16 division, Vernon Hills' Kirsten Fantom tallied 97-97 (194) in winning the title. She beat out runner-up Margaret Sweeney of Round Lake, who shot 116-112 (228).

In the girls 12-13 division, Erin Sweeney of Woodstock took the title after posting rounds of 125-119 (244) while Kirsten's sister, Meredith, was second after rounds of 143-136 (279).

"I'm very happy with the number of entries we had," said Renwood Head P.G.A. Golf Professional Diane Miller. "Overall, the tournament has gotten bigger and better over the years. We had 70 total players this year, beating last year's total by about 25. Junior golf continues to grow. There is a lot of good competition out there."

Golf challenge raises $100,000

Sweeney Oil and Graham Oil teamed up for the 11th consecutive year in sponsoring their annual Golf Challenge to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association. This year's tournament was the largest yet, with 210 golfing participants, and nearly 250 attending the evening dinner and auction. All of the festivities were held at Midlane Country Club and Resort in Wadsworth. The entire event raised over $100,000 for MDA—with the golf, silver and bronze sponsors contributing to fund 16 days of research at $41 a minute.

The highlight of the evening came at the close as 13-year old Philip Cantore's number was drawn for the second year in a row as the first place winner of the camp cash raffle—$6,000. The original prize was actually $3,000, until John Sweeney took it upon himself to double the winnings—personally donating $10,000 to the cause. Cantore is a MDA client of Hinsdale, who served as the Illinois state Goodwill Ambassador in 1997 and 1998.

For more information about MDA's programs and services, or volunteer opportunities, call the MDA Chicagoland Regional office at (630) 916-4550.

Wilmot to host inaugural School Bus Challenge Aug. 12

The first-ever Midwest Motorcoach School Bus Challenge is planned for Saturday, Aug. 12 at Premier Racing Production's Wilmot Speedway.

A team of four drivers behind the wheels of specially prepared school buses will be taking to the one-third mile clay oval.

Gurnee-based Midwest Motorcoach/Olson Transportation will be fielding the team made up of Rob Olson of Lake Villa, Randy and Ray Olson of Gurnee, and Ed Devall of Waukegan, who will each be driving one of the buses. Rob and Ed have the most racing experience, having each driven and won Wilmot championships in various classes. Ray also has a couple years of IMCA modified driving experience under his belt. Meanwhile, Randy is the least experienced, having driven partial seasons in a couple of divisions.

The bus race will be an added event on The Original Outlet Mall of Kenosha Night featuring IMCA Modifieds, IMCA Hobby Stocks and Wisconsin Mini-Sprint Association (WIMSA) mini-sprints. The Shalom Interfaith Center of Kenosha Food Drive will also be held. Fans, competitors and crew members are encouraged to bring non-perishable food items or canned goods and deposit them in specially marked containers at the pit and grandstand entrances. Grandstand gates open at 5 p.m. with racing scheduled for 7.

The planned Aug. 5 race programs at both Wilmot and Lake Geneva Raceway were cancelled due to heavy rains throughout the day and into the evening. Lake Geneva did get its Friday program in Aug. 4. Duck Wack of Paddock Lake, who would've liked Saturday's weather, scored the mini-modified feature win to boost him into the division championship point lead. Roy Morrison of Antioch finished runner-up.

Chad Phillips of Woodstock won his second straight sport truck feature of the season with Vincent Merry of Wadsworth right behind in second. Eric Roberts of Wadsworth captured a heat race win. Nick Kalties of Lake Villa won his first BIC feature of the season following a 'LeMans' style start with the drivers running from the front straightaway to their cars in the infield. Rob Schiebel of Inglewood was among the BIC heat winners.

Mike Monroe of Pell Lake won the Millennium Series Late Model feature. Jim Veugeler of Crystal Lake took top honors in the Rascal Outlaws feature. Second-year driver Jeff Way of Waterford won his third INEX Legend Cars feature of the season.

Lake Geneva plans Antioch Night on Friday, Aug. 11 with residents showing proper identification admitted free to the grandstands. The race program includes Millennium Late Models, mini-modifieds, Wisconsin All-Star Legacy Series cars and BIC cars. On Saturday, Aug. 12 will be Incar modifieds, super late models, super stocks and sport trucks. Races begin at 7:30 p.m. each night.

Wilmot will have the Kenosha County Fair being held Wednesday, Aug. 16-Sunday, Aug. 20. There will be no oval track racing during the fair. Free grandstand events will include The Midwest Challenge Truck & Tractor Pulls will be Aug. 16. The always popular and unpredictable Kenosha County Fair Demolition Derby Championships will be Sunday, Aug. 20 with sessions at 2 and 6 p.m.

Wilmot Speedway will also be hosting a Night of Destruction on Saturday, Sept. 23 with big car demolition derby, small car demolition derby, two-person demolition derby, team demolition derby, roll over contest and school bus jumping all part of the program.

Entry information for either event is available at the Speedway's Welcome Center Track Office on race nights, or by contacting the track office 847-395-0500. Wilmot will host The After The County Fair Championships with the Interstate Racing Association Outlaw Sprint Car Series plus the IMCA modifieds on Saturday, Aug. 26.

Dave Moulis of Johnsburg continues to be unbeaten since winning 'The King of Wisconsin Sprint Car Racing' title July 22 with the victory in the World of Outlaws Gumout Racing Series first ever-sanctioned event at Wilmot. 'King Dave' won the Star Trac 410 Outlaw Winged Sprints feature July 29 at Wilmot. On Aug. 4, at The Raceway at Powercom Park in Beaver Dam, Moulis overcame a broken oil filter in practice to come back and take the victory in the Powercom 410 Sprints main event. Moulis, a 12-year racing veteran and service manager for Fox Lake Harbor marina, is a perfect three for three since sporting the 'Kids & Racers for Victory!' logo. The program is based in the InTouch Office at the College of Lake County in Grayslake. Designed to encourage youth to have a positive lifestyle, drivers who sport the logo agree to advance a tobacco free, drug free, alcohol free and violence free way of living for young people.

The win streak is expected to be put on the line when Moulis competes in upcoming IRA events at Powercom Park Friday, Aug. 18 and Sheboygan County Fair Park in Plymouth on Saturday, Aug. 19, prior to the return to Wilmot Aug. 26.

Joe Roe of Pleasant Prairie scored the feature win Aug. 4 in Hartford, Michigan, moving the 7-time IRA champion into first place in the season point standings. Fred Ebler of Gurnee claimed the 'B' Main title. Raymond Hensley of Lake Villa, who crashed at Hartford, came back to finish fifth in the feature. Roe holds an 18-point lead over Hensley, 2,013-1,995 following the Michigan trip.

And, the racing family was saddened by the loss of Wayne Daun, father of Pleasant Prairie's Todd Daun. The elder Daun passed away during the night prior to the rain delayed IRA event at Butler in which his son was scheduled to compete. Visitation services for Wayne will be from 5-8 p.m. Thursday, August 10 at Prasecki's Funeral Home, located at 3720 39th Ave. in Kenosha by Bradford High School. The funeral service will follow at 11 a.m. Friday morning, August 11, also at Prasecki's. Our thoughts and prayers are with Todd and his family. May Wayne rest in peace.

Hansen wins again

Grayslake's Erick Hansen scored another victory in the Skip Barber Formula Dodge Midwestern Championship, this time at the Putnam Park Road Course near Indianapolis.

Hansen qualified third fastest for the race but had to start 11th after receiving a penalty. The race began with a few droplets of rain but the entire field remained on racing slick tires. As the race progressed, Hansen began to work his way up through the field but was losing ground to the leaders. Conditions got so wet at the halfway point of the race, officials brought out the 'debris' flag, indicating a hazardous track. Didn't matter to Hansen, who mounted his charge.

As the leaders slowed for the increasingly wet track, Hansen continued to push hard, closing a 15-second gap. As the rain fell harder, Hansen got faster, eventually catching and passing the leader on the first turn with two laps remaining.

"This is definitely the best win," said an exuberant Hansen after the race. "I wasn't sure if I was in the lead until I saw my friend giving me hand signals. Then I just concentrated on staying on the track until the end. Some of the coaches present described Hansen's driving 'excellent' and fantastic."

It was the Grayslake native's third win of the year and fifth in the last 10 races.

The music fades out and then a familiar voice comes on. "The best music 102.3 XLC. It's the midday show. I'm Jim Cech, hopefully you're having a good day, and we've got the retro '80s lunch coming up in less than an hour," the disc jockey says into the microphone. He shares a tidbit of entertainment information, followed with a song by that band.

Lake County's WXLC 102.3 FM has been broadcasting since the early 1980s. Before that it was known as WEAJ, on the air in Lake County since 1963. Its sister station is WKRS, a talk-radio station on AM.

In the studio on the west side of Waukegan, Cech is part of the way through his midday show, which is on the air from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. He turns off the microphone and shares the story of how he became a DJ.

"I was doing a television show in Milwaukee called 'It's a Teen Thing,'" Cech explained, noting that DJ Frosty Stillwell saw him on the show. "I must have given an insightful answer or something. But he called me up and wanted me to be on his morning radio show in Milwaukee. So I said, 'Yeah, of course.' I definitely wanted to 'cause I had some mild interest in being a radio disc jockey. Plus you can hide behind the radio, you don't have to be shown on camera. That's one advantage about radio."

He continued, "We ended up becoming real close, like best of friends, and he got me into Hot 102 in Milwaukee, WLUM."

He met his fiancée Lana when he started at Hot 102 in 1994. "I just got hired at Hot 102 and I was doing an overnight shift," he explained, adding that he had stopped at McDonald's to pick something up on his way. "I noticed this girl out of the corner of my eye... A mutual friend of ours introduced us. The funny thing is the next night she called up and won a contest on the station overnight. She's like, 'I'm the one that

VACATION IN YOUR OWN BACKYARD

Just when you think you're a grownup...

Back when I was a teenager, I pictured adulthood as a virtual cornucopia of freedom. Freedom to do the things I wasn't allowed to do, such as watching grown-up rated movies, drinking alcohol, swearing, smoking and spending time alone with the opposite sex in a place that didn't have four wheels and windows that fog up. Not that I really wanted to do any of those things—okay, I did want to do some of them—but mostly I wanted to make the choices for myself.

Little did I know that as an adult, you can have the freedom to indulge in all these things and more...as long as you don't have kids.

Why is it that nobody ever warned me about that? Could it be misery loves company, and our parents figured we spoiled their fun, so why let us in on the secret?

Or maybe it's just because parenting has changed. For example, I know that I heard the phrase "Do as I say, not as I do" on a regular basis when I was young. I can remember get together at my grandparents' house where the martinis were flowing and the kitchen was filled with smoke from pipes, cigars and cigarettes as they sat around the table playing cards.

But today, society frowns upon adults who do that sort of thing around children. And, worse yet, the kids know it. Somewhere along the way, the tables got turned. I don't have to police their behavior, because they are too busy policing mine.

Take swearing, for instance. 99 percent of the time, my language is as clean as...well, it's pretty good. But heaven forbid I should let out with a "damn" once in a great while or, worse yet, the word that follows so nicely after "bull__."

KID: "OOOOOH—Mom! WHAT DID YOU SAY???"

ME: "Huh? ME? Umm...pull it. That's what I said."

KID: "You did not. YOU SWORE! MOM...WHAT DO YOU SAY??"

ME: "What do you mean, 'what do I say.' I'm an adult. I can say what I want."

KID: "MOM..."

ME: "Okay, okay. I'm sorry. I'll try not to do it again."

As for alcohol, well, I was never much of a drinker, so it wasn't hard to do without it around the kids. That is, until I turned 45 and began worrying about dropping dead. Then, after reading several articles that claimed having one drink a day was good for your heart, I decided what the heck. I'll start having a drink each evening with my dinner.

You can imagine the reaction when my kids saw me pour myself a glass of wine.

KID: "OOOOH—Mom's drunk."

ME: "Give me a break! I haven't even finished one drink yet. That's all I'm having. One! It's for my heart."

KID: "DAAAAD. Mom's one of those...what do you call them...Mom's an alkaseltzer."

Oh, brother.

And finally, there's television. You know how the experts always tell you to watch television with your kid? Well, these days I've nearly given up television altogether, thanks to my pre-pubescent son's strict standards for appropriate television viewing. According to him, any show that has: (A) Kissing; (B) Women in scanty clothing, or (C) The word "sex," is inappropriate. Considering how far television is now pushing the boundaries, you can guess what that leaves us: the Disney Channel, and Cartoon Network.

Heck, even the Discovery channel isn't safe. The other day, I was flipping through the channels while the kids were outside, and I stopped at the Discovery channel to watch some show about elephants. Well, they actually showed film of a male elephant that was strutting his stuff so to speak, and next thing you know, he found a willing female elephant and...needless to say, the kids would have freaked.

But knowing they would have disappointed suddenly made me want to watch it even more.

"You know...I'm a grownup," I said to myself. "It's okay if I watch this...Whoa, that is definitely a male elephant! HONEY, COME HERE—look at that!"

"Big deal!" my husband snorted. "They probably used special effects."

Just then, the back door opened, and in walked the kids.

"Hi, Mom," said my son. "What are you watching?"

CLICK went the remote as I turned off the TV. "Oh, just some Disney movie."

As soon as the kids went upstairs, my husband elbowed me.

"A Disney movie, huh? What was it called...Jumbo?"

"Quiet!" I told him. "You'll get me in trouble!"

you talked to at McDonald's. I ended up talking with her until 6 o'clock. I asked her out on a date, and the date was May 29, '94. And ever since then we've been on and off, just like any relationship, any good relationship, I guess."

Last year, Cech got involved with politics in Oak Creek, the Milwaukee suburb where he lives. He ran for mayor, losing 54 to 46 percent. "It was close, so hopefully I can get in the next term," he said he ran because a referendum for the high school had been turned down and not a lot of people his age were getting out to vote.

"So I wanted to run to show people that the 18-30 crowd has a voice also, you know. And if one of those guys that's smack dab in the middle of that demographic would run, hopefully that would generate more votes and do what's right for the community. Now, the downside is that I lost the mayor race, but you know, I was going up against an incumbent who has been in there for three terms or whatever, so I felt that I put up a pretty good showing. The good side is that referendum was finally passed," Cech explained. "It's something I feel very passionate about, and I love my city. That's why I live in Oak Creek and drive down to Lake County every day."

He enjoys coming to work at XLC and really loves his job. "I get to get up in the morning, come in here," he said, motioning to studio. "I think this is the greatest job in the world! You get to come in here, meet a ton of people, play music and ... get up and do it all over again the next day. It's a dream job, without a lot of pressure."

Cornell: Worked into radio position

Program director Nick Farella has been working at WXLC since 1983. Many listeners know his deep voice from their afternoon drives home. "I love being on the air," he shared. "I've grown to be able to handle the office work."

Promotional events, such as remote broadcasts and concerts, allow the listeners to meet the DJs and win prizes. Showing a thank you note, he said, "This is what makes the whole thing worth while." He told of a listener who won backstage passes to meet Rick Springfield during the Vernon Hills Summer Celebration. "She was absolutely a Rick Springfield fan. She was the kind of person that should have been backstage before anybody else I could possibly think of," he said. "So she comes in today with brownies and a thank you note and she had a ball! ... It makes all the hard work worthwhile."

Farella said he enjoys developing talents, such as Jason Cornell, who he has worked with for a number of years. In the course of being program director, he has seen 30-40 of his DJs move on to Chicago and Milwaukee markets in radio and television. "There's a lot of self-satisfaction in that. There really, really is."

The Lake County resident has always enjoyed radio. "I fell in love with radio a long, long time ago," he said. "I remember as a young child, listening to the radio—the transistor radio under my pillow—and thinking, 'God, that's a fun job!'" He said he grew up listening to Dick Biondi and "rock 'n' roll radio." He tried theater in school and realized he would probably not make it as an actor so he went into radio.

During the little free time he has, Farella enjoys traveling and spending time with his wife and four children. His message to the listeners is, "Thanks for listening. We appreciate it."

Morning personality Jason Cornell has been working in radio since 1989. He had been listening to DJ Rich Padgen on XLC at the time.

"He asked me, 'Well, have you ever thought about an internship?' I'd never thought about it. He said, 'Why don't you come hang out with us this summer, and we'll have a good time. You won't get paid but you'll have a lot of fun.' I did and absolutely fell in love with it. It just got into my blood," Cornell recalled.

Until that point, Cornell said he had planned to go into medicine. But he's been "living, breathing, eating radio ever since" the internship, which earned him a not-so-flattering nickname.

"I used to be called 'Jason the Intern from Hell' because I was an annoying, snotty, pompous, pain in the a—, and you can quote me on that! I was on everybody's heels. I just wanted to learn anything and everything that anyone would teach me and I did it to point of annoying," he said.

He spends his free time with his wife Jodi, which many listeners know from the Liqua Fit commercials, and his stepson Josh. "He's my son, he's not a stepson," Cornell said, describing his relationship with the 4-year-old. "He's Jodi's son from a previous marriage, but he's my son still."

Jodi and Jason Cornell were high school sweethearts but their parents forced them to break up. "I tried to tell them that I knew what I was doing," he said, but it was to no avail. The pair stayed friends through other boyfriends/girlfriends and each other's first failed marriages. "The timing was just right again."

The Waukegan resident sees himself doing radio for a long time. "I honestly can't picture myself doing anything else. I've tried, I've thought about it. I've had other offers, and I'm just the happiest when I'm making no money in radio," he laughed. "You have to put a serious value on being able to get up in the morning and actually wanting to go to work."

Speaking of, the morning DJ is on the air from 6-10 a.m., which has him up each morning by 4 a.m. and in the office usually by 5 a.m. Cornell is also the music director, so he is in the office until noon or 1 p.m. scheduling music, making contacts and getting compact discs.

"I think the one goal that I set for myself once I got full-time on the air is I just wanted to make a difference in somebody's day. Even if it was just one person—if I could make that person smile or chuckle or even go 'hmm,' you know, because of something that I said or something that I did on the air that day, it's worth getting up and doing," Cornell said.

Historical society seeks help

The McHenry County Historical Society is looking for public participation with two major projects scheduled for 2001. The first of them concerns adapting a used school bus into a mobile museum for use throughout the county.

Help is also needed for planning and carrying out the exterior and interior designs. Anyone interested in being involved on the mobile museum project should call the historical society at (815) 923-2667 before August 15.

The second project relates to a major exhibit titled, "Marching Off-Left Behind-The McHenry County World War II Experience," that is scheduled to open in the spring of 2001. On April 14, 2001, the Society will kick-off the exhibit with a USO Dance at the Union American Legion. Those interested in being on the dance planning committee and/or can contact a 1940s dance band and someone who can teach swing dancing should also call the Society before August 15.

'Replacements' offers laughs, feel-good story

The "Replacements" is good fun for those eagerly awaiting the start of the football season.

Though far off when it comes to reality, this movie is a "what if" football fantasy that had this reviewer hysterical with laughter. The premise of the movie is that a salary cap causes NFL players to strike. Owners choose to bring in replacement players, called "scabs" by the striking superstars, to keep the season going. The Washington Sentinels' owner Edward O'Neil (Jack Warden) brings back an old coach Jimmy McGinty (Gene Hackman) to try to finish off the season and attempt a playoff berth.

McGinty goes the unconventional route and chooses unknowns to make up his team. This rag-tag bunch of guys makes for a fun couple of hours to watch. There's Shane Falco (Keanu Reeves), a former quarterback whose disastrous Sugar Bowl appearance follows him everywhere. McGinty finds him scraping barnacles off boats at the harbor and convinces him to take one more shot at his dream.

Clifford Franklin (Orlando Jones) has the speed but can't catch anything. His antics keep the team laughing, even in jail after they are arrested for a fight. Danny Bateman (Jon Favreau) is a SWAT team member who Falco is glad to have on his side. Bateman's passionate playing puts fear into those who cross his path. If only NFL players had that kind of excitement and drive!

A Welsh soccer player nicknamed "The Leg," Nigel Gruff (wonderfully portrayed by Rhys Ifans, the annoying roommate in "Notting Hill") adds character by smoking on the sidelines and kicking the football longer than anyone's seen in a long time. From the other side of the world is Fumiko (Ace Yonamine), a sumo wrestler from Japan whose eating habits have all team members sick to their stomachs.

Gene Hackman and Keanu Reeves in Warner Brothers' "The Replacements."

"The Replacements" makes fun of every ethnic and racial stereotype, but more to prove how wrong they are. Brothers Jamal (Faizon Love) and Andre (Michael Taliferro) leave the bodyguard business to play beside each other with the Sentinels. They balance each other out well. Adding to the fun mix on the team is Wilkinson (Michael Jace), a convict who has been released just to play on the team. This is all hush-hush of course, which makes for much humor as John Madden and Pat Summerall discuss the resume of "Ray Smith," the name Wilkinson plays under.

More characters add to the fun, including the risqué cheerleader replacements, which are made up of girls from Pussy Cats dance club. Their dancing catches the other team off guard and makes for humorous sideline entertainment, though a bit crude which earned its PG-13 rating.

The nontraditional play of the Sentinels is what makes this predictable movie fun to watch. Relationships—between the players, between Falco and the coach, and between head cheerleader Annabelle Farrell (Brooke Langton) and Falco—give the movie a good feeling and some plot.

But what makes the movie fun is watching football on a big screen and the triumph of "good" over "evil." For those who are looking for a fun way to spend a couple of hours, see "The Replacements." It helps if you also are a football fan, but it's not necessary.

For all the laughs, I give this movie three and a half popcorn boxes.

Chicken Run

This film's co-directors Nick Park and Peter Lord have not disappointed. Borrowing unabashedly from "The Great Escape" and "Stalag 17," each frame of this claymation feature is filled with details both charming and entertaining. Yankee chicken Rocky (Mel Gibson) helps a flock led by Ginger (Julia Sawalha) escape death by pot pie. The characters are, as with all Park's creations, rich in expression and personality. "Chicken Run" is destined to become a family classic. Five popcorn boxes. —Brenda Beitscher

Disney's The Kid

Disney's latest romp into fantasy land—"The Kid"—features Bruce Willis as his typical character: a crusty but benign someone named Russ who, through some unforeseen circumstance, rights his ways before its too late. This film is fun and entertaining and should be seen by anyone who is in the 40-year-old range. Three and a half popcorn boxes. —Bob Warde

NOW PLAYING

Mission: Impossible 2

It's amazing how utterly dissimilar "Mission: Impossible 2" is from the original, despite both featuring scripts by Robert Towne. Maybe it is John Woo makes all the difference. Woo is famous for his slow-motion action sequences, which are prevalent in "M:I 2."

The movie, starring Tom Cruise as secret agent Ethan Hunt, is filled with numerous action scenes including shoot-outs and motorcycle chases, which are some of the best action sequences ever seen. Four and a half popcorn boxes. —Rob Backus

Nutty Professor II

As with most sequels, the follow up to "The Nutty Professor" doesn't live up to the first film. Though Eddie Murphy does a fantastic job of portraying all five Klumps and Buddy Love, none of his personās has much to say that is worth hearing. The film is rated PG-13 indicating that the humor should bend toward the adult side of things, but a majority of the jokes reference bodily, bathroom functions—the type of humor preferred by fourth grade boys. That said, there are enough sight gags and jokes about anatomy and sex to make that same group of fourth grade boys blush. "Nutty Professor II: The Klumps" is ruder, cruder and not nearly as funny as its 1996 smash hit predecessor. One and one half popcorn boxes. —Julie Murphy

The Patriot

The rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air... Director Roland Emmerich has a new all-American classic with "The Patriot." Set in 1776, the story focuses on the trials of one South Carolina family, led by patriarch Benjamin Martin (wonderfully portrayed by Mel Gibson), during the American Revolution. The story goes much deeper than the war, as it tackles such issues as duty to country versus family, loyalty and trust. For the story and the wonderful actors who bring it to life. Four popcorn boxes. —Michelle Habrych

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

You have an important financial decision to make this week, Aries. Look at all of the pros and cons, and consider how your choice will affect everyone involved. Turn to that special someone if you need advice. He or she won't steer you in the wrong direction. Virgo plays a key role.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Don't back down until you get what you want early in the week, Taurus. Several people are trying to hinder your efforts. You can overcome any obstacles that they present by staying focused. A loved one needs your advice about a personal matter. Be honest with him or her — even if what you have to say won't be appreciated.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

A co-worker gets you caught in the middle of a difficult situation. Don't try to fast-talk your way out of this. Just explain your involvement, and everyone will believe you. A close friend gets into trouble late in the week and needs your help. Do what you can for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

A comment that you make early in the week puts you in the spotlight. Don't be nervous, because you deserve the attention. So, revel in it. A loved one needs your input on a family matter. While you don't want to help, you must. Don't worry — it isn't going to be as bad as you think.

Leo - July 23/August 23

Keep your eyes and ears open at work this week, Leo. There is something going on, but no one is saying what it is. Try to find out, because it involves you. A close friend takes you out for a night on the town late in the week. Enjoy yourself, because it's sure to be fun. Scorpio plays a key role.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

Don't be too upset with yourself when you make a minor error this week, Virgo. It's an honest mistake that doesn't cause any major problems. So, just set things straight, and move on. It's not worth getting upset over this. That special someone asks you an important question on Thursday. Be honest with him or her.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

A co-worker turns to you for advice about a personal problem. While the two of you aren't close, try to help. He or she will appreciate your opinions. This bonding also will strengthen your relationship. A loved one offers you romantic advice. Listen to what he or she has to say.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

A close friend confides in you late in the week, Scorpio. Listen to what he or she has to say, and do what you can to help. However, don't let others know about this conversation. Remember, he or she told you these things in confidence. Pisces plays an important role on Friday.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Things are going to get quite hectic this week, Sagittarius. Be prepared. You have to stay organized and focused if you're going to get anything accomplished. That means canceling some social plans on Wednesday. Don't worry — by the end of the week, everything will start to settle down.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Don't be shy when a close friend introduces you to an intriguing person on Tuesday. You have to be outgoing to impress him or her. The person whom you've been seeing calls it quits. While you're upset, try to realize that he or she isn't the right person for you. Deep down, you've always known that.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

A loved one gets you involved in a family matter this week, and you need to put a lot of time into the situation. While there are other things that you'd rather do, realize that your family is counting on you. An interesting person asks you out late in the week. Say yes, because this could be the one for you!

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Don't let something that you really want slip through your fingers this week, Pisces. You have to put in a great amount of effort to get it, but it definitely will be worth it. Sagittarius plays a key role.

Discover boating at the all-new Racine in-water boat show

Producers of the 14th annual all-new Racine In-Water Boat Show, Aug. 17-20 at Reefpoint Marina, invite you to discover Boating on a free powerboat or sailboat ride during the show.

Discover Boating enables first-time boaters to experience boating's pleasures with the help of friendly boating experts," said show manager Jennifer Faulk. "Through Discover Boat, new boaters learn first-hand how life truly is better with a boat."

He'll chat one-on-one with first-time boaters on such subjects as determining the right boat for their needs, insurance, financing, maintenance, towing and storage. This objective, non-sales-driven center is also a great resource for boaters moving up to their next boat.

Hundreds of new-for-2001 powerboats and sailboats will be on display at the show. Models ranging in size from seven-foot inflatables to over sixty-foot luxury motor yachts will be available for visitors to board and buy. Two tents will also be filled with the very latest marine accessories and services.

This year's show offers something for everyone who enjoys the waterfront. Additional attractions include a live reggae concert

Waukegan closer to new sports complex

Park District signs letter of intent to purchase 100 acres at John Manville site

The Waukegan Park Dist. (WPD) announced that it has signed a letter of intent to purchase the John Manville (JM) former manufacturing site in Waukegan to build a state-of-the-art sports complex. The transaction is expected to close by Dec. 15, providing the site receives a favorable opinion regarding its suitability as a sports complex by two environmental consultants hired by the WPD.

"Our environmental consultants have begun their assessment of the site," said Greg Petry, WPD executive director. "The letter of intent prevents the land from being sold to another buyer while the environmental studies are completed."

According to the Letter of Intent, the purchase price will be negotiated by Oct. 18 when a purchase sale and agreement is scheduled to be signed. JM has agreed to take the property off the market until that date.

The letter of intent also indicates that JM will arrange for the demolition and removal of all remaining buildings and equipment from the property, and install cover material to prepare the property for development. The configuration, composition, grade and draining for this cover and the schedule for its installation will be negotiated between the parties. JM has said it will endeavor to complete the demolition and install the cover by July 31, 2001.

In March 2000, the WPD announced its interest in purchasing 100 acres in the western part of the JM property to build a new sports complex. The site does not include the landfill closed under the federal Superfund program to the east of the property nor the industrial canal and borrow area/ponds to the north of the property.

Public housing may increase in County

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

Those with an opinion on public housing will get a chance for their say.

The Lake County Board passed a resolution by the Planning, Building and Zoning Committee to authorize the Zoning Board of Appeals to initiate a public hearing in regard to a proposed affordable housing amendment.

Board members requested the ZBA to place affordable housing on its list of high priorities and urged it to expedite the text amendment process.

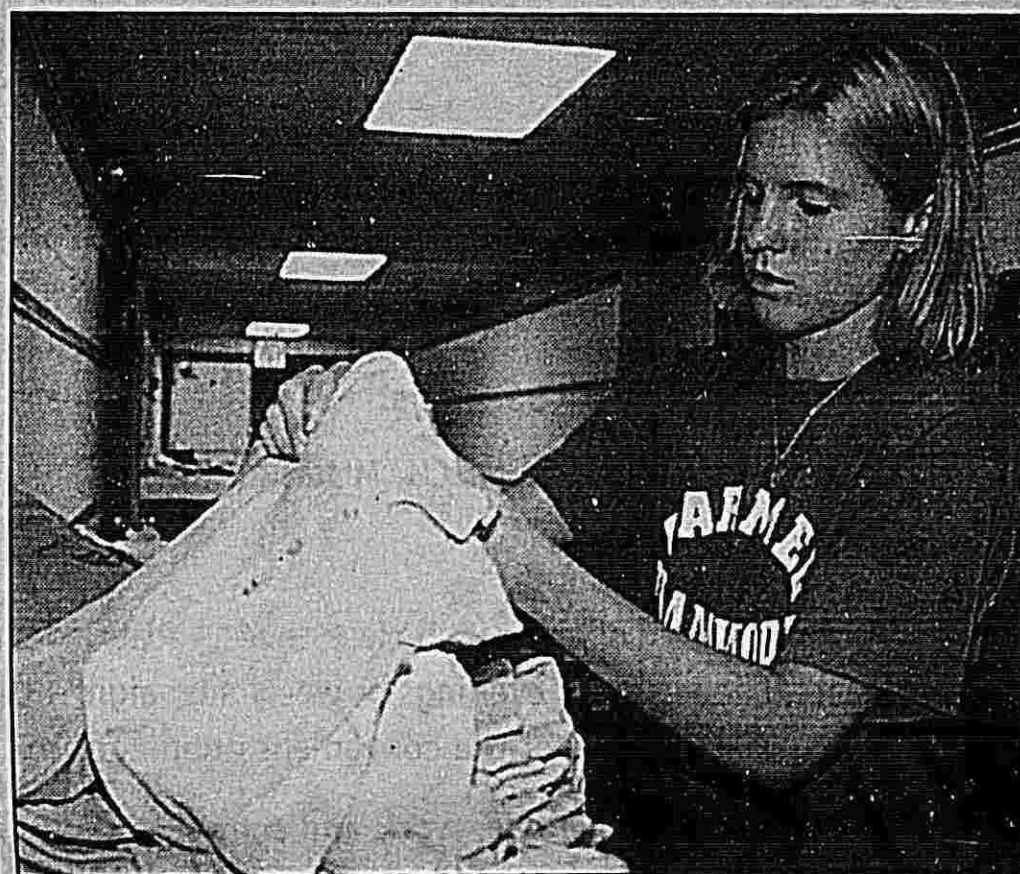

"We've missed our first deadline by going around in circles," stated board member Angelo Kyle (D-Waukegan Dist. 12). "We hope to meet the second deadline before a new board is elected in November."

The board voted last April to accept the county's Unified Development Ordinance without an affordable housing ordinance so that the issue could be delved into more thoroughly. An affordable housing task force was formed to recommend solutions to boost the stagnant rental housing market in a rapidly growing Lake County.

Those recommendations resulted in a proposed amendment that would require low cost housing to be built near accessible public transportation and businesses with large workforces. Public hearings scheduled for July 24 failed to materialize

Farm Bureau seeks bike riders for fund-raiser

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

For the first time in its five-year history, the Illinois Farm Bureau's Ag in the Classroom Bike Ride will be coming to Lake County, and the Lake County Farm Bureau is looking for rider participation from both the public and private sectors of the county.

The annual bike ride, which has consistently been held in the southern counties of the state, serves to raise funding for Ag in the Classroom programs that educate students in grades K-8 about the importance of agriculture in society.

The Lake County Farm Bureau reaches nearly 8,000 students each year with the programs, including field trips, guest speakers and pre-

County home to blue herons

BY BECKY DUBA
Staff Reporter

This year biologists for the Lake County Forest Preserve and the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) discovered a new great blue heron rookery in the Gurnee Woods Forest Preserve.

"A rookery is a term for a nesting colony of birds," said Jim Anderson, the Natural Resource Manager for the Forest Preserve.

Anderson was part of the team that takes to the sky in a helicopter to conduct the annual survey, known as the crane count.

"We didn't expect to find 24 new nests," Anderson said. "We were kinda surprised."

The nests are four feet in diameter and made of sticks. The birds locate them near taller trees such as oaks, cottonwoods and silver maples of which Gurnee Woods has plenty. Another requirement for the birds is that they nest near wetlands and do not experience much disturbance.

Anderson believes that even though the discovery of new heron

Recycle your old computers

One of the frustrating side effects of the boom in electronic technology development is that equipment is soon outdated. Many of the latest computer software programs require newer computer operating systems and high-end system capacities in order to perform well. Consequently, there are many computers collecting dust and taking up space while owners work on new machines and wonder how to responsibly dispose of their unwanted models.

Lake County residents do not have to wonder any longer. The Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) in collaboration with Motorola and System Service International, is sponsoring a one-day event to collect a variety of outdated, broken or unwanted household electronics and turn them into usable items or recycle them into brand new products. An electronics collection event will be held from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. on Sept. 9 at the Motorola facility at 600 N. U.S. Hwy. 45 in Libertyville. "Although many of the electronics collected at an event such as this are seriously outdated or broken, many of their components can be recovered and used to make other useful products," stated Monica Duebbert, SWALCO Public Information coordinator. "SSI focuses on reuse, along with reclaiming usable materials from a large variety of household electronic goods. Today's VCR casing may end up as tomorrow's recyclable one-use camera case."

The collection event is free to the public; residents just need to load up unwanted items and drive to the site, where staff will take it away to start its new life. Since this type of event tends to draw a large number of participants, there may be a long wait while materials are unloaded from each vehicle.

A variety of electronic items can be brought to the Sept. 9 drop-off event. Many of the materials collected at this event will be refurbished, reused or recycled into a manufacing feedstock.

Computer equipment: PCs, monitors, mouse, mainframes, terminals, keyboards, modems, tape drives, scanners, printers, CD Rom drives

Office equipment: Telephones, faxes, pagers, typewriters, copiers, shredders, calculators, cell phones, postage machines, answering machines, adding machines.

Home electronics: Toasters, VCRs, power tools, microwaves, stereos, TVs, cameras, joysticks, video game players, blenders and mixers, camcorders.

Over the past several years, there has been an increasing demand for this type of service, but very few companies that were able to organize events for public drop-off of materials. SSI is one of several organizations in the Chicago area that now offers this service so solid waste management entities, like SWALCO, can offer residents a great throw-away alternative. SSI is a service company specializing in turnkey surplus asset management and material recovery. They are a one-stop-shop capable of dealing with the huge variety of components that make up electronic equipment.

Motorola has been a willing collaborator in electronic recovery efforts, sponsoring several public collection events in collaboration with the Solid Waste Agency of Northern Cook County at the Motorola facility in Arlington Heights. "As a leader in the field of electronic technology, we are pleased to support this effort to recover obsolete electronics and manufacture them into valuable new consumer items," said Glenn Starnard, environmental, health and safety manager at Motorola's personal communications Sector in Northern Illinois.

Call the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County at 336-9340, ext. 1 for further information on the Electronic Recovery Collection event.

Lauren Beth Gash and Lance Pressl appear at Social Security conference

Democratic congressional candidate, Lauren Beth Gash (10th District), and Lance Pressl (8th district), appeared at the Social Security Conference hosted by the League of Independent Democrats of Northeast Illinois, according to Program Chairman, Peggy Shorts. The conference, billed as a "Birthday Celebration" commemorating the 65th anniversary of the Social Security Act, and a program titled "Keeping Social Security Secure" was held at the Waukegan Township Park Place.

Shorts said that because Social Security is a major issue in the upcoming November election, it is important that attendees hear the views of the candidates. She said to add to the festive part of the program, Waukegan Township Supervisor, Patricia Jones, will lead them in singing "Happy 65th Birthday Social Security." Shorts said, "We think that the conference will be informative stressing the importance of keeping the Social Security program strong, and we want everyone to enjoy the festive part, too, with cake and coffee to celebrate the anniversary of the Social Security Act."

A representative from the Social Security Administration will be on hand and there will be a special presentation made to Chris Cohen, son of the late Wilbur Cohen, honoring his father for the work he did in drafting the original Social Security Act which was passed into law on Aug. 14, 1935.

Former State Representative, John S. Matijevich, who sponsored many bills on behalf of seniors on the state level, and issues Coordinator for the League, will lead off the conference with background on how the Social Security Act came about and how through the years it was strengthened in spite of attacks from political extremists. Matijevich said, "I can think of no single law that has been enacted that has had a greater impact on the lives of citizens in America, particularly the aged and disabled, and we must do everything that we can to protect its solvency in the years ahead."

Steve Temkin, vice-chairman of the league, will analyze published views of political candidates for president as well as the major political parties with an insight on which views guarantee greater success for the future of the Social Security system. "The vast majority of Americans, no matter which political party they support favor policies that will protect and enhance the Social Security system," Temkin said.

Larry McShane, chairman of the league, said that Social Security is always a major election issue, but is even more so because the presidential candidates have different views on how to preserve Social Security in the future. McShane said, "We believe what has made Social Security so strong is that people who believe in the system have such a strong record of voting." He said that everyone is welcome to attend the conference and their presence will express their appreciation of Social Security and their support to "Keeping Social Security Secure." McShane concluded by inviting anyone wanting more information to contact the league by calling 604-4108 or writing them at League of Independent Democrats of Northeast Illinois; 3567-B Grand Ave. 308; Gurnee, IL 60031-4607.

November vote 'one for the ages' for county electors

Lake County voters have a unique opportunity to impact national affairs in the November presidential election. That's because the county is in two Congressional districts, both of which have been thrust into pivotal U.S. political roles by circumstances.

In modern times, this has never happened before.

In the 8th Congressional Dist., which includes all of west Lake County and Newport and Warren (Gurnee) Townships, popular and dependable incumbent Congressman Phil Crane bids well to retain the seat he has held for three decades and further his philosophy of conservatism, smaller government and lower federal taxes. Crane fits the district, which also includes a healthy portion of northwest Cook County, like a glove. His relationship with voters is almost reverential.

This election the stakes for Crane are much higher. With the election of a Republican president and retention of a GOP House majority, Crane is on track to become chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, the tax policy framing body of the federal government. With Phil at the helm, and a Republican in the White House to sign conservative-based tax reform, there's no question which way Ways and Means will go. The implications for 8th Dist. voters for propelling Crane forward and changing U.S. tax policy are enormous.

In the 10th Congressional Dist., including the Shore Line and Libertyville and Vernon townships in Lake County, the stakes are equally high. With moderate Republican Congressman John Porter retiring, voters will have a choice between a Democrat who has carefully crafted an image of moderation while serving in the Illinois General Assembly and a GOP newcomer whose qualifications focus on the field of military preparedness and his pledge to carry on the social moderation and fiscal conservatism of his predecessor who he once served as a chief aide.

With the 10th Dist. showing increasingly liberal leanings in elections, State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park) normally would have an edge. But with the new inclusive Republican "compassionate conservatism" laid out by the Bush-Cheney team, Republican Mark Steven Kirk has attractive new political tools. Coupled with his own enthusiasm and an agenda for sensible, responsible government, Kirk has a new look to take to the swing voters of the 10th. The youthful Navy Reserve pilot has the daunting task of putting a local "face" on Republican leadership for the 10th, a social and economic microcosm of America. He appears equal to the task.

If ever a group of electors had a better opportunity for putting a personal hand print on history, it will be this year for Lake County voters.

Waivers undercut requirements for PE

Illinois politicians knowingly help schools skirt a state law requiring daily physical education for all students K through 12.

This is done through a neat system called waiver relief. Local and area schools are among the most active districts getting PE waivers granted by the Illinois General Assembly.

By latest figures provided by the Illinois State Board of Education, 28 PE waivers have been granted Lake County Schools for all sorts of reasons ranging from no PE class space, excused for pompon activity and band and cheerleading exemptions to computer learning taking precedence. One waivers application was withdrawn and another denied.

Gym teachers, physicians, some legislators and a few parents are alarmed over a growing disinterest in physical education, but the waiver granting procedure is ingrained. Illinois is the only state in the nation requiring daily PE.

By conducting a public hearing, gathering testimony and filing for a waiver, the local board of education can modify requirements of the law providing the General Assembly says OK. School officials seem immune to critics who insist children are being turned into fatties incapable of performing sit-ups and wind sprints.

Numbered among the 18 percent of the state's 896 school districts that have PE waivers in effect are Antioch High and elementary, Diamond Lake elementary, Fremont Consolidated, Grayslake High, Lake Forest High and elementary, Mundelein High and elementary, Stevenson High, Warren High, Wauconda Dist., Waukegan, Woodland Consolidated and Zion-Benton High. Round Lake Unit was denied a waiver.

As one educator told this column, if the choice comes down to PE or academics, PE loses. Waiver critics respond that deviating from the state law encourages obesity and heart problems. We're becoming educated couch potatoes.

Farm museum

Mention in this column several weeks ago about establishing a working farm museum on a Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. property resulted in some interesting responses.

One reaction was that of Forest Preserve Dist. President Carol Calabresa who said a working farm exhibit open to the public "definitely has merit." Calabresa said she intends to explore the idea. She said several sites in the Barrington area could be considered besides the new Ray Lake Farm Forest Preserve in Fremont Township (rural Mundelein).

Ray Rockenbach, who sparked the farm museum idea with your reporter, said he heard from a couple who would be interested in becoming "live-in farmers" at the exhibit. We'll keep working on the farm museum idea. Calabresa, by the way, hails from Dane County, Wis., where there are a lot of farms.

Highway hassle

Some rainy weather was attributed to a dip in attendance at the 2000 Lake County Fair. Having the intersection of Rtes. 45 and 120 torn up for improvements didn't help, either. Construction work for widening and installation of turning lanes has creamed summer business at the nearby Country Squire, one of the county's notable restaurants. Although they're open six days a week, owners Bill and Chris Govas know their regular customers are staying away in droves to avoid highway hassle. The reported October completion of the reconstructed intersection can't come too soon for the Govas'.

Open no flop

Speaking of attendance shortfalls, Gail M. Svendsen, president/CEO of the Lake County Convention & Visitors Bureau, is vexed over one daily newspaper's portrayal of the U.S. Women's Open at Merit Club as a spectator flop. True, the Open didn't make the anticipated 120,000 persons at the gate, but it was far from bombing. Svendsen said the paper didn't even have its facts straight on the actual gate. Attendance exceeded 100,000, she said. Typical of how the big-time women's golf event impacted on local business was the comment from Paul Ludwig of Ramada Inn, Waukegan. "Positive," Ludwig exclaimed. Tom Doddington, veteran county hotelier and Comfort Inn manager, said the positive PR and name recognition will benefit Lake County business for years to come. One final note from this humble observer: Casual golf fans don't seem to relate to women pros like they do their male counterparts. Serious golf purists enjoyed exceptional links ability displayed by the lady professionals. No complaints from them.

Working moms

Dena Thompson of Central Baptist Children's Home is out to put new meaning in the phrase "working moms." She is directing a new program for the time-honored Lake Villa institution where stay-at-home moms can start an in-home business providing quality infant and toddler day care. She's taking calls at 356-1021 to provide how-it-works information.

Is there anything—that's affordable anymore?

Wally Licht, of Antioch, is a fan of my column and I occasionally run into him in walks around Gurnee Mills. Because he often talks about the harmful effects of housing density, I recently said to him that he ought to be happy that the proposed housing development in Antioch was delayed. He said that he indeed was delighted but he anticipated that the developer, after some modifications will probably get his way, as they usually do.

We're both "from the old school," so we talked about the difference between housing developments of today and of years past. We talked about the way a family first afforded a property lot and then looked for a contractor to build on it, according to the style and "pocket

IT THROUGH
John S. Matijevich

book" of the prospective homeowner. Now, the developers build many, many homes on their developments and many of the homes have virtually the same features. Wally said, "Yeah, and some remind me of army barracks, and very costly ones, at that."

The conversation then turned to affordability of homes. We both agreed that there is no such thing as affordable housing anymore. To many young people, the dream of owning your own home will become an impossible dream.

About a week or so ago, I was reading that the dictionary publishers, as they periodically do, list new words and phrases that find the way into our lexicon. My talk with Wally about affordable housing, or the lack of it, gave me the idea that there are some words and phrases that may have earned deletion from our vocabulary.

Since affordable, in my mind, means that one has the financial means to have something without an undue hardship, less and less things of value are becoming affordable. Surely, housing for low and moderate income families is becoming less affordable.

You may argue with me that many are buying these high-priced homes, so to some the homes are affordable. I'll stand my ground and go on to my next example. You have heard the term "affordable health care" bandied about, I'm sure. The reason that millions of Americans aren't covered with health insurance is that they just can't afford it. There are some people, too, who would like to retire but keep on working so that they are covered under a company health care plan.

Let's go on to affordable prescription drugs. That has become a major political issue. What many people can't afford is to get sick, because the costs to get medicine they might need is scandalously too high. Isn't there something wrong with our system of health care when many of our citizens are pooling together to take bus trips to Canada where they can buy medicines at much lower costs than here?

As I build my case to eliminate the word "affordable" from the dictionary, let's go on to my next example. After a "roof over your head," and taking care of the health of your family, what is important to the future welfare of any family? Certainly providing for a quality education for their children is uppermost for most parents.

Affordable education? If there is anything soaring higher than the tuition costs to attend colleges and universities, tell me what it is. And any parent will tell you that tuition costs are just a part of the total costs to provide an education for their

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

'Four on the Shore' carry Republican hopes

Republican leaders believe they have the right combination of issues, funding and top caliber candidates to reverse Democratic inroads on the North Shore.

They're pinning their hopes on the "Four on the Shore," two men and two women carrying the GOP banner in the November election. Stakes are high: a Congressional seat, state senate seat and two state representative positions.

Simple math shows the odds facing Republicans. Three of the four jobs now are held by Democrats.

Nancy Flouret with the least name recognition might have the best chance. The GOP newcomer is out to fill the vacancy in the south Lake County 60th Dist. being vacated by incumbent State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park), the Democratic nominee for Congress.

Another Republican ballot rookie is better known, Lake Forest's Cesille Price, who is battling to oust popular State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) in the 59th Dist. With their mutual interest in education and women's issues, Price and Garrett are like two peas in a pod philosophically.

Greg Kazarian is well known in GOP ranks. His task is making himself well known with independents in an effort to knock off incumbent State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills). If the district which runs into Waukegan is as Democratic as it has been, Kazarian faces a tough go.

Rounding out the "Four on the Shore" is Mark Steven Kirk, who is running hard to succeed his former boss and mentor, retiring Congressman John Porter. Both Kirk and Gash will have plenty of money to slug it out in the high-profile race with national implications.

Thomas: Talk football instead of politics, but vote for him.

Skidmore: Treasurer throws big GOP bash at Blarney's.

Helander: Still improving the voting process.

Credit Ant Simonian, executive director of the Lake County Republican Federation, with coming up with the "Four on the Shore" tag.

Bear talk OK

If you'd rather talk football than politics, that's OK with DuPage County Judge Bob Thomas, the former Chicago Bear kicker who is running for the northern Illinois slot on the Illinois Supreme Court. But just come to a fund-raiser Aug. 23, at Tina and Tony's Ristorante, Gurnee. Oh, yes, and be sure to bring $100 for admission.

Blarney's fun.

No political fund-raising affair is better attended than the fun bash every summer at Blarney's Island in Grass Lake than the shindig tossed by County Treasurer Bob Skidmore. Scheduled Aug. 30, Republican faithful arrive early and stay late. Skidmore is continuing a tradition founded by his predecessor, Jack "Red" Anderson.

Beard deprived

When it comes to beards, Grant Township Supervisor Gordon Kiesgen says he prefers the bushy white version he dons at Christmas to play Santa Claus to his homegrown model. Kiesgen admitted he tried to grow a beard to wear at the township's 150th birthday celebration last Sunday, but he didn't like what he saw in the mirror. So he shaved. "Awful experience," he noted.

Next election

Genuine candidates and grass-roots government wannabees have Oct. 24 circled on their calendars. That's the first day for putting nominating petitions into circulation for the consolidated election next spring. In Illinois, it's always election season.

Smash hit

Members of the new League of Independent Democrats of Northeast Illinois held their first public event last Saturday in Waukegan and considered it a smash hit. Congressional candidate Lauren Beth Gash outlined a "lock-box" plan to fortify Social Security where surpluses are put in trust. The event was in celebration of the 65th anniversary of the Social Security Act.

New methods

After intense inquiry into new optical voting methods, County Clerk Willard Helander hinted that the present Voto-matic system could be retired as early as the April 3 consolidated election. Current technology involves key punch cards which came into vogue when seven-inch television picture tubes were the rage.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Libertyville raid could link Ryan to license scandal

Libertyville—A 2-year-old investigation into a bribes-for-licenses scandal at a number of Illinois' driver's license facilities suggests then-Secretary of State George Ryan may have known about the bribes-for-licenses scandal sooner than he has previously admitted.

According to the associated press, an investigator has told a grand jury that while police were raiding the Libertyville license facility, longtime Ryan friend and then Inspector General Dean Bauer was on the phone asking to speak to "George."

Items found during the raid indicated that money was illegally funneled into Ryan's campaign fund.

Man arrested for assault

Lake Villa—Lake Villa Police arrested Willie Andrew "Deon" Searles, 36, of Round Lake Beach for aggravated sexual assault and unlawful restraint in an incident occurring at 6 p.m. on July 17 at a Lake Villa model home sales office. He was taken into custody on a $50,000 warrant and remanded to Lake County Jail.

He was released on a $5,000 bond, pending his preliminary court appearance on Aug. 17 at 10:30 a.m. in Waukegan courtroom C-120.

Searles is accused of grabbing a 50-year-old sales associate working at the model home office off Deep Lake Rd. near Gelden Rd. The victim fought off her attacker, who allegedly left the scene in a light green Ford Mustang.

Village considers gun safety ordinance

Grayslake—A firearm safety ordinance was discussed at the Grayslake Village Committee of the Whole meeting.

The latest ordinance would require residents to keep firearms locked up and unloaded at all times to insure the safety of children.

Police Chief Larry Herzog said all police employees are already required to keep their firearms in this type of situation when kept in a home. He also said that if the ordinance were passed, it would not mean that officers would begin going into homes to inspect if firearms were being safely stored. The ordinance would only encourage home owners to keep their firearms stored safely.

Cross-check assailant found guilty

Gurnee—The defendant in an aggravated battery charge stemming from a hit at the end of a hockey game could face up to a year in prison after a guilty finding was entered by Associate Circuit Court Judge John Radosevich.

The defendant, a 15-year-old Glenbrook North High School student, had the charge reduced from aggravated battery to misdemeanor battery after his attorney entered an Alford plea, which maintains that the defendant's innocence to the criminal act, but acknowledges that he could be convicted on the testimony from the prosecutors' witnesses.

The case stemmed from a hockey game between Glenbrook North and New Trier high schools at Rink Side Sports in Gurnee Mills.

2 Round Lake men arrested for hate crime

Lake Geneva, Wis.—Douglas Zimmerman, 18, and Jeffery Pottgatter, 19, of Round Lake were in Lake Geneva, Wis. on July 18 when several witnesses observed them attack a Hispanic man while shouting, "White power!"

Police Officer Anthony Bertram met with the victim at Lakeland Medical Center, the victim stated the two men yelled numerous racial slurs at him including attacks against Hispanic, African-American, and Jewish people.

Both men were charged with battery and disorderly conduct.

$6 million gift stuns Antioch

Anna (Dolly) Spiering spent much of her life making sure folks in Antioch were enjoying their lives.

Although she died last October at the age of 100, she is still doing that. It was learned recently that she left $6 million to be equally divided among four Antioch organizations:

- The Senior Citizens Center.
- The Lakes Region Historical Society.
- The Antioch Rescue Squad.
- P.M. & L. (Palette, Masque and Lyre) Theater.

It was difficult to find residents who knew much about Dolly; she had outlived her peers. But here are a few memories I unearthed:

Dolly and her buddy, Clara Haling, doing a high-kicking French can-can dance down Antioch's Main Street in a Fourth of July parade.

Other recollections: "A rather outstanding woman—quite a gal—she wanted to have a good time and make sure everyone else was having fun, too."

Dolly and her husband Clarence owned three corners of the intersection of Rtes. 45 and 173. Their home was on one corner, their Old Hickory tavern across the street, and the Spiering Castle restaurant across from that.

A 1930s photograph shows the Spiering Castle did resemble a fortress, and outside were Texaco gasoline pumps, Schlitz beer signs, and a sign that announced: "Pure Beef Sandwich, 10 cents. Plate Lunch, 30 cents."

Jim Fields, when he was township supervisor, recalls dancing with Dolly at a senior center party when she was in her 90s. He laughs: "Afterward, she said to my wife, 'Jim is a pretty good dancer but he could use a few lessons.'"

Clarence Spiering died in 1983 and Dolly also was preceded in death by her daughter, Dorothy Leable, in 1998.

Old-timers remember Dolly and Dorothy as regular card-players at the senior center and active in the Antioch Garden Club, the American Association of Retired Persons and the downtown Thrift Shop, which raises money to help the handicapped.

I located a nephew, August E. Comella of Prospect Heights.

"Uncle Clarence and Aunt Dolly had an 80-acre farm," he said. "When I was in high school, my brother and I lived there during the summer months."

"Clarence built the Castle restaurant; its banquet hall held 200 people."

"He also built a huge, beautiful ranch-type home on the southwest corner; it's now the site of a tavern."

"Dolly was a very ambitious woman, very meticulous and one of the hardest workers I've ever seen."

"Clarence dabbled in real estate, buying and selling farms. At one time he owned a pretty good chunk of Antioch."

"They almost lost their farm during the Depression. Clarence went to work as a carpenter at the Chicago World's Fair, living with us in Chicago during the week."

"They loved to travel. They would spend three or four months away from home, not in the world's major cities but in primitive places like Africa, Egypt, South America and Mexico."

Dolly died, after savoring and flavoring an entire century. But folks in Antioch aren't saying, "Goodbye." They have six million reasons for shouting, "Hello, Dolly!"

children. It seems that there is more attention focused on the very few who might qualify for athletic scholarships than the many more average youngsters who can better succeed in life if they can continue their education at institutions of higher learning. Quality education is becoming overly burdensome; it surely is not affordable to many.

Well, I just covered the surface in my argument that we can eliminate the word "affordable" from our vocabulary. I didn't even get into the price of gasoline at the pumps. That was getting close to being "affordable," wasn't it? You can bet, too, even though the prices are dipping some, we'll re-visit that issue again as they greedy ones "dip" into our pockets later on.

By the way, I noticed the other day that even air is costing more than it should. I opened a $3 bag of potato chips and found that instead of chips, it was mostly filled with air. I don't mind paying a few cents to pump air in a tire, but I don't like to pay for all of that air to puff up the potato chip bag.

They tell me that all I have to do now is to contact the dictionary publishers to make my case on why the term "affordable" should be deleted from the "books." My guess is that I would have to "go through so many hoops" to plead my case, it won't be affordable to do it. I'll just rest my case with you; I know Wally agrees with me.

Heart-healthy program marks 10th anniversary, reaches 50,000 Lake County seventh graders

Community IMPACT, a joint project of Trustmark Insurance Company and Lake Forest Hospital mark 10 years of working with Lake County schools to teach seventh graders about tobacco hazards, nutrition and living a more healthy lifestyle.

During the last school year, Trustmark volunteers visited about 40 Lake County schools and gave hands-on workshops to more than 5,300 students. Since IMPACT's inception in the 1990-1991 school year, more than 50,000 students have participated in the program.

"Putting our preventive healthcare philosophies into practice in Lake County is at the heart of the Community IMPACT Program. We encourage wellness at an age when children start making choices that can affect their health for a lifetime," said Grover Thomas, CEO and President of Trustmark.

The IMPACT workshops are divided into three parts: In "Tobacco Talk," students are connect to heart-rate monitors while instructors demonstrate the affects of tobacco use on the heart, lungs and mouth; "Heart of the Matter" lets students examine a real cow heart and listen to their own hearts through a stethoscope and in "Don't Eat Your Heart Out," students learn about body fat, fast food and how to make heart-healthy choices by reading food labels.

Trustmark is a leading insurer and benefits administrator licensed nationwide to offer a full line of medical, life, managed care, disability and benefits administration services to groups and individuals. The company has more than $1.7 billion in assets.

Students from Charles Caruso Junior High School in Deerfield receive bookmarks of their heart rates at Trustmark Insurance and Lake Forest Hospital's IMPACT heart-healthy program.

Early Parkinson's disease can be diagnostic challenge

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been going to a doctor for nine months. He is treating me for Parkinson's disease. He taps my knees and sends me to physical therapy. I can't walk properly. My writing is very poor. I have sleepless nights and no appetite. The pills I take — Sinemet and Eldepryl — don't help and are expensive. Am I being made a sucker for all this? — H.S.

ANSWER: Early Parkinson's disease can be difficult to diagnose because early symptoms are often quite subtle and can be attributed to other illnesses. You have some Parkinson's symptoms: difficulty walking, illegible handwriting, sleep disturbance and loss of weight due to loss of appetite. As the disease progresses, four symptoms quite typical of Parkinson's emerge. They are: tremor, bradykinesia, muscle rigidity and postural instability.

Parkinson's tremor is one that comes on when the hands are at rest. For instance, when a person's hands rest in the lap, the index finger constantly brushes back and forth over the thumb. Bradykinesia is slow movements and halting speech. Muscle rigidity means muscles are not contracting smoothly. If a doctor bends the arm of a Parkinson's patient, the rigid arm resists movement and suddenly relaxes so the arm bends slightly. A continuous series of starts and stops in bending the arm produces a motion similar to the motion of a cogwheel. The movement is jerky, not fluid. Finally, postural instability is the tendency of Parkinson's patients to lose balance and fall.

TO YOUR HEALTH

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

The basis for all Parkinson's symptoms is depletion of dopamine, a brain chemical that's essential for transmission of movement messages. Sinemet restores brain dopamine. Eldepryl retards dopamine breakdown. The medicines ought to have made a significant change in your symptoms. Either you could stand a change of medicine, or the diagnosis of Parkinson's might be on shaky ground.

No one is going to suffer if you seek a second opinion from a neurologist. Do so.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please explain bronchial cleft cyst. My 4-month-old grandson has a hole in his neck and the doctors say the hole runs back to his ear. They plan to operate. — C.P.

ANSWER: During the first few weeks of development, slits (clefts) that look like fish gills appear in the embryo neck region. They give rise to important neck structures as the embryo continues to grow. Usually by the fourth week after fertilization, the clefts close. One of your grandson's did not. Clefts can communicate with the ear. Surgery cures the problem. Left untreated, they are the site of recurring infections.

Readers may write Dr. Donohue at P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Perplexing potty problems can be cured by work

Hi Dr. Singer,

We are just potty training our daughter and recently have found her to be becoming fearful of going to the potty. We cannot really pin this on an event that has happened and wondered if you could maybe tell us if you have seen this before and what caused it? Thank you. L.O.

Hi L.O.

I have seen lots of things cause this. I would recommend first that no matter what you read here, that you make a visit to your pediatrician to make sure everything is "A-OK" down there.

I have seen kids get scared of going to the potty because they have a very hard bowel movement once. It hurts and then they are afraid to go back and try again. This one is tough, because it is almost like a conditioned response, but it needs to be tended to because I have also seen kids who are afraid to go, hold it until it becomes a real problem. At that point they become very impacted and the problem that started out somewhat small escalates and then becomes more painful and thus, more scary.

In the cases where a child has overly hard bowel movements, I have recommended a visit to the pediatrician to discuss how to soften things up a bit. There are medications that do this job very well. Your doctor can also tell you about dietary considerations to help this problem. Usually, if the child can have even one bowel movement that is not scary, he or she begins to trust the process a little bit more and can become more comfortable with it.

Another thing I have seen before is the "over-ingratiated" child who has learned that whining about the potty brings lots and lots of personal attention. This one is also hard because, of course, parents do not want to ignore their child in such a seemingly desperate situation. In the past, with my clients, I have usually recommended that if they even suspect this and they have already been through the pediatrician and the physical rule-out, that they try and tone down the attention a bit. I have recommended that they can still sit with the child on the potty, but maybe don't do as many personal things.

PARENT'S PLACE

I have had parents tell me that they read books to their child and sing with their child on the potty to try and get the child to go. In many cases, those very things were getting the child to not go so that the attention would continue. So, I have told these parents to sit with the child, but not sing or read. Be there, but don't entertain. I have also told them to try this in shorter bursts as opposed to really long stays. If it is an attention thing, this should help significantly because the child is no longer getting all the attention for not going and is still being required to sit on the potty.

Then there is the child who is afraid of the "look" of the toilet. I have seen some older young children who are afraid that they are going to fall in or get eaten by the toilet. Let's face it, a toilet can be a fearsome looking thing for a very small person. In that case, reading children's books about toilets or talking about it can be OK as long as it is not done while the child is sitting on the toilet. You can do the education and stress relief in the child's room and then still do the potty like I mentioned above. Be sure your child is old enough for a toilet before you switch to one.

There are also potty seats that fit in the toilet to make it look less scary. That can be useful too. The one thing I would not do is allow an older child who is using the toilet but scared of it, to go back to a potty seat. This is like telling him that his fears can be relieved by escaping the feared object. That may set him up to expect to escape from things that scare him in the future. He could miss a lot of things that way. Phobias develop by repeated escape from feared objects. That escape becomes the calming factor. The person never learns to face or conquer their fears because they keep escaping before they get a chance to deal with it. This can happen if you allow the child's fear to win. If the child faces it and finds that it is not scary over and over again, eventually, it won't be scary at all. Be gentle, do what you need (like what I mentioned above) to get the situation to be more comfortable for the child, but be careful to not give attention or escape for fearful behavior. Again, check with Pediatrician first to rule out physical causes for the fear. Happy pottyting!

Bears to comfort young patients

Something to cuddle. A soft, fluffy teddy bear brings a smile to a small face easier than almost anything. Now, thanks to Bear Magic in Lake County, young surgery patients at Victory Memorial Hospital are receiving extra comfort through the gift of a personal teddy bear.

Doreen J. Lagoni, chairbear of the non-profit organization, recently delivered a 25-bear donation to the hospital's Same Day Surgery Department. The teddy bears were donated by members of the Libertyville Sunshine Rotary Club.

"The bears are a comfort to our young patients who find themselves in an unfamiliar, scary environment," says Marianne Finlay, R.N., manager of surgical services.

Bear Magic in Lake County was chaired in July, 1999. Its purpose is to ease loneliness and inspire care and compassion through the ageless symbol of love-the teddy bear. The bears, which are donated by area businesses and organizations, are distributed to hospitalized children and frail elderly adults throughout the county.

Doreen Lagoni, Bear Magic in Lake County, delivers personal teddy bears to Diane Valdez, R.N., of the Same Day Surgery Department at Victory Memorial Hospital, Waukegan. The bears are earmarked to help bring smiles of young surgery patients. This donation was made possible by the generosity of the Libertyville Sunshine Rotary Club.

Health Department provides tips to prepare for a heat wave

Summer is a great time for outdoor fun and activities. But it is also a time when heat stroke and other ailments can strike with little warning.

"During prolonged periods of hot, humid weather, extra caution should be taken by the elderly, small children and bedridden or chronically ill persons," said Dale Galassie, Executive Director of the Lake County Health Department and Community Health Center. "They are especially susceptible to heat exhaustion and heat stroke if they are unable to move to the temperature-controlled room and remain hydrated."

The Health Department offers these tips to avoid heat-related illnesses:

- Drink extra fluids such as water, fruit juices or lemonade, especially during very humid weather.
- Avoid caffeine or alcohol.
- Apply at least SPF 15 sunscreen and lip balm, especially on children.

- Wear lightweight, loose-fitting clothing (especially made of cotton, if possible) that does not interfere with the evaporation of perspiration.

- When outside, wear a hat.

- If possible, stay in an air-conditioned environment during the hottest part of the day.

- Eat small meals and eat more often. Decrease food high in protein, which increases metabolic heat.

- Wear sunglasses with an ANSI rating of 99 percent, and 98 percent UVA protection. These ratings should be found on the label of the sunglasses.

- Wear sunglasses that are either wrap-arounds or close fitting to prevent the sun from filtering from the side.

- Try to engage in activities that involve strenuous labor in the evening or early morning hours to avoid the hottest part of the day, which is between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

- In a home that lacks air conditioning, stay in the basement or lowest floor, close drapes to keep out the sun or go to a shopping mall, library or other building that is air-conditioned.

Symptoms of heat exhaustion, which can be caused by spending too much time in the heat, include pale and clammy skin, heavy perspiration, dizziness, weakness, headache or cramps, nausea and fainting. Symptoms of heat stroke, which can be caused by over-exposure to direct sunlight, are high body temperature, skin that is red and dry, rapid pulse, and loss of consciousness. Heat stroke can lead to death if untreated. An individual with any of these symptoms should see a physician as soon as possible.

"An important reminder during hot weather is to never leave an infant, elderly person or even a pet in a parked car with the windows closed," said Galassie.

Ten ways to talk with your teens about money

It may seem like your teenagers turn a deaf ear to everything you say. But when it comes to financial matters, America's young people are listening to their parents more than we might think.

The recently released third annual survey of teens commissioned by Merrill Lynch, which designates April as International Saving Month each year, found that advice from adults about saving and investing greatly influenced the behavior of many teenagers. In the survey of 515 teens between the ages of 12 and 17, 41 percent of teens asked a parent or other relative for advice on where to invest or save money, while another 8 percent asked a friend or family friend. And, 57 percent of teens said that a parent or relative opened a saving account for them.

While these statistics are encouraging for many parents, they may cause guilt feelings for others. Significantly fewer teens this year than last year (56 percent vs. 41 percent) sought a parent's advice on how to save money. Perhaps your teen doesn't feel comfortable approaching you about money matters, or maybe you have been reluctant to broach the topic.

What Teens Need to Know

Our survey indicates that many families are discussing helpful money management topics. How would your family compare to those of the teens we surveyed? Frequency of Household Discussions on Specific Money Issues

	Frequently	Sometimes	Never
How to spend money more wisely	51%	38%	11%
How to be a better saver	41%	44%	15%
Paying for a college education	26%	47%	27%
Investing money	29%	41%	30%
Using credit cards responsibly	8%	24%	68%

You may know that you should discuss money with your teens, but you may not know how. Here are ten aspects of financial management that you and your teens should discuss.

1. Budgeting. Help your teen construct a simple budget that tracks income and expenses, so they can see where their money goes and how much they can save.

2. Saving to meet goals. Discuss your teen's short- and long-term goals - whether a computer game and clothes, or a car and a college education. If saving has been a problem, go through the budget to see where spending could be tightened.

3. How to save and invest. Because of inflation, the money your teen saves today may not buy as much in the future. That's why earning interest is important. Some teens don't grasp this concept. In the survey, almost 67 percent of teens surveyed said checking or savings accounts was the best vehicle for saving money. Yet 13 percent said saving with a piggy bank - a method that doesn't earn a dime of interest - was the best way.

A savings account is a good starting place, but some teens are interested in stocks and stock mutual funds, investments that offer the potential for higher returns. In the survey, 12 percent of teens said they owned mutual funds, while another 12 percent said they owned stock. If you're going to advise your teen on investments, you'll have to be knowledgeable yourself - take the time to bone up on investments like stocks, bonds and mutual funds.

4. Earning money. If your child's expenses exceed income, or if he or she has significant long-term goals, talk about ways to increase income. While you don't want jobs to negatively affect your child's school work, many teens can handle both responsibilities. In our survey, 72 percent of teens reported doing odd jobs to earn money and 34 percent of older teens said they had a full or part-time job.

5. Taxes and inflation. When teens get their first paycheck, they are often shocked at their take-home pay. Using their pay stub, talk about the taxes that are taken out of their pay. Extend the discussion to show how inflation can have a depleting effect on income over time.

6. The wise use of credit. Every year, our survey finds a widespread lack of knowledge about credit cards - this year, 68 percent said they have never discussed using credit cards responsibly with their parents. Discuss choosing a card with the lowest interest rate and paying the balance in full each month on time to avoid interest and late fees.

7. Buying and maintaining a car. Thirty percent of teens in the survey who said they were saving said they were saving to buy a car. But often teens don't understand the financial impact of a car. Discuss buying a used car versus a new one; leasing or buying; the effect of an auto loan's interest expenses on total cost; and insurance, maintenance, and fuel costs.

8. Paying for college. In our survey, 42 percent of those saving said a college education was a goal. But fewer teens this year (26 percent vs. 33 percent) reported frequently discussing saving for a college education with their family.

9. Living on your own. Help your teens prepare for living on their own by discussing anticipated monthly expenses, including rent and utilities, telephone, cable and Internet access, food, household supplies and laundry costs, transportation, and renter's and auto insurance. Don't forget to include security deposits, utility deposits, telephone or cable hookup charges, and moving expenses.

Preserve wood furniture for generations to come

Whether it's your grandfather's cedar rocking chair or your mother's chestnut hope chest, enjoying family heirlooms means taking care of them over the years. Fighting the inevitable wear on older furniture or even on new furniture, may seem like a daunting task, but with a little bit of attention and care, you can help prevent wood age-lines. These heirlooms can be preserved for future generations to enjoy.

Taking a few simple precautions and care when handling your furniture can help prevent needless damage. There are two main reasons wood surfaces begin to show age over time: environmental factors including light and moisture, and neglecting to clean and treat surfaces.

Enjoying your favorite rocking chair while a stream of sunlight shines through your window may be an ideal resting-place for you, but it may not be healthy for the chair. Light damage can cause bleaching and other forms of discoloration to wood surfaces.

Like sunlight, the amount of moisture in the air can have devastating effects on wood furniture over time. Changes in humidity can cause wood to shrink and swell as the content of water in the air changes. This movement slowly distorts parts of furniture and may lead to warpage. Storing furniture in damp places such as basements or sheds can cause this warping to occur at a faster pace. According to the Smithsonian Institution, keeping humidity at a stable level is best achieved by using a de-humidifier in the summer and humidifying in the winter.

To prevent needless wear on your furniture and keep it looking great over time, furniture experts offer the following tips:

- Approximately once a month, moisturize unsealed wood with an oil. This can help protect wood against drying and cracking. It also helps to preserve the genuine beauty of your wood.

- To clean, shine and protect finished wood surfaces, use a furniture polish once a week. When used regularly, your furniture gets better protection with no residue build-up.

- Utilize a scratch cover in a color that closely matches your wood. This will help restore damaged wood surfaces and hide nicks and scratches.

- It is best to use leather or felt coasters under objects that will be standing for a long period of time, as well as under any liquid containers.

- If discoloration due to exposure to sunlight or dampness appears on the wood, apply a polish as soon as possible. If the discoloration is left too long, you may have to sand the wood before reapplying oil and wax.

Maintaining the beauty of wood is a task that demands attention, but keeping family heirlooms and family heirlooms to-be in good condition, will be worth the effort now and in the future.

For more information about cleaning, shining and conditioning wood surfaces in your home, please call (800) 228-4722.

All new floors at Clark residence

The creative minds and professional workmanship of the staff at Signature Flooring in Round Lake Beach helped Bill and Elise Clark underscore their home's bottom line so to speak when they had all new floors put into their five-year-old, four-bedroom Gayslake home.

The allergies of their 4-year-old son Kyle, who suffers from asthma, and the good work done in a previous home by Signature, prompted the Clarks to have the flooring company redo the floors throughout their fairly new Grayslake home, thus reducing dust and other air contamination.

With the entire house being worked on, the Clarks moved out of their two-floor home while Signature moved several installation teams in, so the tremendous job was finished in a scant week.

"We were pleased with the wood flooring that Signature installed in our other home," said Bill, adding, "The new floating floor shows no gaps with the wood's expansion."

In every room, Signature installed 1/2 inch thick, easy maintenance, honey oak hardwood flooring imported from Sweden, except for the entry hall, the kitchen and the basement. Even the stairs were done in honey oak.

This gave the Clarks' floors the bright and clean look of "today."

"Besides the medical reasons for the new floors, we really like the way they look," says Bill.

"We only have a few small area rugs and a runner on the stairs to soften the wood flooring and we have found no increased noise factor," added Bill.

The Clarks also had Signature do the entry hall and kitchen floors in a sand colored ceramic tile, using the new oversized tiles.

The basement den has a new sparkle because of the off-white Berber carpeting Signature installed, as does the living-room fireplace, which now sports some new tilework.

The Clarks, pleased with their home's new look, feel that they now have floors that will probably outlast their 20-year guarantee.

Easing transitions can help children grow

Back to school time often means changes for children and families: the first day of kindergarten or first grade; new preschools or child care settings; new classrooms and new teachers. Making smooth transitions between home, programs and schools can help children feel good about themselves and teach them to trust other adults and children. Helping children adapt to new situations can ease parents' minds and give them a chance to become involved in their children's education. Transitions are exciting opportunities for children to learn and grow. Parents and early childhood professionals share a role in making children feel safe and secure as they move to new educational settings. Of course, such milestones in children's lives can cause anxiety, too. Strengthening the ties between programs and families will help create smooth transitions for adults and children both.

How parents can help:

1. Be enthusiastic about the upcoming change. If you are excited and confident, your child will be, too.
2. Prepare yourself. Take note of how your child reacts to separation. If possible, visit the new setting with your child. Introduce your child to the new teacher or early childhood professional in advance.
3. Arrange a playdate with another child from the program, preferably one-on-one, so that your child will see a familiar face when she walks in.
4. Start daily routines that will add to continuity. Let your child become involved with packing lunch or laying out clothes. Also, begin an earlier bedtime several weeks before.
5. Put aside extra time, particularly on the first day, for chatting and commuting together.

er. But remember not to prolong the good-bye. If the child whines or clings, staying will only make it harder.

6. Always say good-bye to your child. Be firm, but friendly about separating. Never ridicule a child for crying. Instead, make supportive statements like, "it's hard to say good-bye."

7. At the end of the work day, put aside your concerns and focus on being a parent. How teachers or early childhood professionals can help:

1. Make sure activities are developmentally appropriate for children. Interesting and challenging, but doable, activities will help children feel comfortable in their new setting.
2. Make an effort to get to know each individual child as quickly as possible. Parents can provide information about children's likes, dislikes and special interests.
3. Welcome suggestions from families, particularly those of children with special needs. Parents can offer specific suggestions they have found useful for their own child, and advise on classroom set-up and modifications.
4. Hold an orientation for children and parents. Small groups will make it easier for children to get to know each other.
5. Show children around the new school or program, introducing them to other adults who are there to help them become acclimated.
6. Create partnerships between preschools and elementary schools in the community. Meetings may focus on the sharing of ideas and concerns.
7. Set up an area for photos of parents and family members that children may "visit" throughout the day. Also include items that reflect the cultural experience of all children to help promote a sense of mutual respect and understanding. Children, just like adults, need time to adjust to new people and situations. Experience can make transition a bit easier, but even with experience, change can still be stressful. Patience and understanding on the part of parents and teachers or caregivers will help children learn how to approach new situations with confidence—a skill that will help them make successful transitions all through life.

Conversation is the key to connecting with kids

As the world grows more complex, parents are faced with tough issues that are difficult for children to understand and even harder to explain. It's more important than ever for adults to talk with children about the key topics that they likely will face, including violence, sex, drugs and alcohol.

Following are some tips for talking with children about difficult topics, from Children Now and the Kaiser Family Foundation.

• Start early—Discussing sex, violence and drugs with youngsters will no more "put ideas" into their heads than discussing traffic safety will make them want to jump in front of a speeding car. In fact, by opening a dialogue with children early and talking often, parents have the opportunity to answer their children's questions first with accurate information that's in sync with their family values.

• Initiate conversations with your child. Television and other media can be great tools for this. Watching a program about teen-age violence can be a great opportunity to open a dialogue. When the show is over, ask your child what he or she thought of the program. Just one or two questions may be enough to start a discussion.

• Create an open environment. It is important to create an environment where your children feel like they can come to you with questions about anything at anytime, without fear of being punished.

• Listen to your child. Listening carefully to your child can help you to better understand what he or she really wants to know, and how much he or she already understands. This will make it easier to adjust your explanations to your child's level of comprehension. If you have more than one child—and your children are widely spaced—talk with them separately. Children at different ages usually are at different developmental levels. Listening also helps to build self-esteem by letting children know that they are important and are being taken seriously.

• Be patient. Children have a tendency to ask questions over and over again, which can test any parent's nerves. This is perfectly normal—the child simply is trying to absorb all they want to know. Listening and explaining things patiently allows children to think at their own pace.

Technology scores points in the millennium classroom

This fall marks the first school season of the new millennium, and it's looking a lot different from the little red schoolhouse of the past. Schools have gotten wired — technologically speaking — and students are online for the new school year. A recent National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) survey shows that 89 percent of public schools were connected to the Internet by the end of the last school year.

Schools have transformed themselves to keep up with technology and the students who attend them have changed as well. Here's how:

- Today's students are experiencing situations and absorbing information sooner and faster than ever before. Their lives are driven as much by changing household patterns, as by computers and access to the Information Superhighway. More socially mature than their predecessors, children are getting older, younger.

- For most of their lives, technology and its impact on the workforce has been on an upswing. More than half of young people ages 14 to 24 hold some type of job, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

- Emulating what they see their parents and older peers doing, they are using the latest gadgets and technology to better organize and plan their busy days.

Nowhere are the characteristics of the modern-day student more prevalent than in the classroom and schoolyard. As educated consumers practically raised on the Internet, this year's back-to-school crowd has firm ideas about what they need and want as they prepare for a new school year. They research products and brands on the Web, exchange e-mails with friends about what's hot and not, check out chat rooms and make informed buying decisions about products that reflect their need to be more efficient throughout their school day. Today's students have an insatiable desire for the latest in everything — and they are taking their new "techno-tools" to school.

"This generation of students is more fascinated with electronics and gadgets, and has a higher comfort level with technology than any before," says Yvonne Hutterer, Marketing Manager at Mead. "New school supplies that are fun and functional are sure to get more use, and that is likely to lead to a more involved, more successful student."

Fun and functional notebooks and binders, and 'tech-y' electronics, are this season's new school supplies from Mead.

In response to the need to create products that are relevant and applicable to students' requirements today, Mead has introduced the first electronic school-supply line in the industry — the new Smartbook® Digital Series. The Smartbook® binder is packaged with one of four digital devices to help students balance their busy schedules and better meet the demands of daily student life. The devices also are available to purchase individually, so children can have fun collecting them.

A dictionary is a good student's constant companion but it is heavy. That's one reason the binder, packaged with a spell-check calculator — it can check the spelling of more than 30,000 words and also features an eight-digit calculator — is one smart choice for this season. Another option is a voice memo recorder, which records and plays back 20 seconds of messages — perfect for capturing quick reminders or homework assignments. Or, choose an electronic organizer which can hold up to 50 phone numbers, and features class schedules, clock/calendar, eight-digit calculator and metric conversions, or an FM auto-scan radio, which can help students unwind on the bus ride home.

School supplies designed to help students focus more on their work and feel less stressed are going to the head of the class. Mead's new Gizmos™ binder is a storehouse of school tools. A traditional school binder with a built-in three-hole punch and pencil case with sharpener, appeals to students' love for gadgets. It allows them to carry a single supply through the halls, while meeting all their organizational needs. Gizmos™ also comes packaged with a removable clear-plastic 10-inch ruler, tab dividers and filler paper.

"With both teachers and students printing out more information from the Internet, the binder storage system has become very popular, making a three-hole punch a necessary school supply," explains Hutterer.

The vital part that technology plays in the daily life of America's school children is not limited solely to the computer buffs any longer. It has become the way that students and schools connect to and manage the world around them each and every day.

Back to school safety tips

Riding the Bus

School bus transportation is safe. In fact, buses are safer than cars! Even so, last year, approximately 26 students were killed and another 9,000 were injured in incidents involving school buses. More often than not, these deaths and injuries didn't occur in a crash, but as the pupils were entering and exiting the bus. Remember these safety tips:

- Have a safe place to wait for your bus, away from traffic and the street.
- Stay away from the bus until it comes to a complete stop and the driver signals you to enter.
- When being dropped off, exit the bus and walk ten giant steps away from the bus. Keep a safe distance between you and the bus. Also, remember that the bus driver can see you best when you are back away from the bus.
- Use the handrail to enter and exit the bus.
- Stay away from the bus until the driver gives his/her signal that it's okay to approach.
- Be aware of the street traffic around you. Drivers are required to follow certain rules of the road concerning school buses, however, not all do. Protect yourself and watch out!

Walking and Biking to School

Even if you don't ride in a motor vehicle, you still have to protect yourself. Because of minimal supervision, young pedestrians face a wide variety of decisions making situations and dangers while walking to and from school. Here are a few basic safety tips to follow:

- Mind all traffic signals and/or the crossing guard — never cross the street against a light, even if you don't see any traffic coming.
- Walk your bike through intersections.
- Walk with a buddy.
- Wear reflective material...it makes you more visible to street traffic.

Riding in a Car

- You might have heard before that most traffic crashes occur close to home... they do.
- Safety belts are the best form of protection passengers have in the event of a crash. They can lower your risk of injury by 45%.
- You are four times more likely to be seriously injured or killed if ejected from the vehicle in a crash.
- Everyone needs to be buckled up properly. That means older kids in seat belts, younger kids in booster seats and little kids in child safety seats. — Courtesy of back to school safety, www.nsc.org/mem/youth

Back to school also means back to bed

If your child dozes off in class, it could be due to more than a dull lecture. Longer school days, extracurricular activities and after-school jobs make today's children busier than ever. "Sleep debt" or sleep deprivation can lead to increased stress, moodiness and poor academic performance, says the Better Sleep Council (www.bettersleep.org).

It is difficult for your child to learn new concepts when he or she is sleepy. In addition, it is dangerous for that same tired student to drive to school, since sleep deprivation can lead to impaired driving abilities. The number of driving accidents caused by fatigue steadily is increasing.

Getting the proper amount of sleep is just as important to a child's health as diet and exercise. One way to be sure that your children get the proper amount of sleep is to create a comfortable sleep environment.

Following are four factors that can help you create a "dreamy" sleep environment for your child.

- Mattress and foundation — Be sure your child's mattress and foundation meet his or her needs for support and comfort. It's difficult to get deep, restful sleep on a mattress that is too small, too soft, too hard or too old.

- Light — Light is one of the body's most powerful time cues. A dark room is the most conducive for sleep, day or night.

- Noise — Sudden, loud noises from inside or outside the home can disrupt sleep. Steady, low sounds like a fan or air conditioner are soothing because they help block out other noises.

- Temperature — The ideal bedroom temperature is between 60 and 65 F or 16 to 18 C.

Gurnee Days * Making Millennium Magic

August 10-
August 13

LAKELAND
NEWSPAPERS

What is the Gurnee Days celebration?

The Gurnee Days Corporation, a not-for-profit organization of volunteers, has been planning and orchestrating the annual Gurnee Days celebration for 28 years. The upcoming Gurnee Days festivities will be held the second full week of August—Thursday, August 10 through Sunday, August 13. The theme is "Making Millennium Magic."

The event is funded by cash or in-kind contributions from area businesses, individuals and civic organizations. Without their support, Gurnee Days would not be possible.

Traditionally, the celebration begins with a

Thursday evening Testimonial Dinner honoring Gurnee individuals or couples who have made a significant contribution to the community.

Some of Friday's activities include a bicycle rodeo, Des Plaines River Trail Bike Ride and a Beach Bash.

Saturday kicks off with a golf tournament and 10k and 2-mile fun run. Viking Park hosts exhibitors, food, games and stage events. Baby, bike, trike, and buggy contests are held in the morning along with Open Houses at the Gurnee Police and Fire Departments. The historical Mother Rudd Home is open to visitors with special exhibits and activities. Even a student Art Show is displayed over the weekend.

Saturday evening concludes with Viking Fest, a pig roast and extravaganza at the park.

Sunday events include a pancake breakfast and a parade along Grand Ave. in the Village Center. Viking Park is overflowing with people enjoying the exhibitors, food, games and stage events. Magnificent show cars are on display at the car show and stage acts entertain at the talent show.

Gurnee Days is a community affair and was recently honored for promoting a safe family festival. Come and join in the fun. For additional information, write to the Gurnee Days Corporation at P.O. Box 111, Gurnee, IL 60031 or call 249-5596 or 623-7788.

Gurnee Days Honoree chosen

The Gurnee Days Corporation has announced Mayor Richard Welton has been chosen as the Gurnee Days Honoree for 2000. The testimonial dinner honoring Richard Welton will be held on Thursday, August 10 and traditionally kicks off the annual Gurnee Days festivities.

Richard Welton, a resident of Gurnee for many years, is happily married to Debbie Welton and the father of 5 children and proud grandfather of 2 grandchildren.

He has a strong relationship with his large extended family of three brothers and four sisters. The Welton family has a long history of involvement in the Village of Gurnee and Warren Township.

Richard Welton is currently the Mayor of Gurnee, a position he has held since 1973. He was a village trustee from 1971-73 and a locally elected precinct committeeman from 1964-80. Welton's contributions to the Village of Gurnee are many and well known. He has successfully led the village through an explosive growth period from a small quiet place to a sprawling area with a very diverse character. During his 27-year career as Mayor of Gurnee, the assessed valuation of the community has increased from $25 million to $575 million and employment has grown from less than 1000 to over 10,000. Mayor Welton worked cooperatively with citizens, officials, boards, other taxing bodies and professional planners to develop a comprehensive land use plan for the village. Also, he played an important role in attracting many major businesses to the village, including Six Flags Great America. Through it all, Welton has preserved the hometown feeling of Gurnee.

From 1968-95, Richard Welton was the president of Welton Food Stores and Welton's Village Market. Currently, he is a financial advisor with Morgan Stanley Dean Witter and spends time supporting his wife's new business—Women's Fitness Center in Gurnee.

Some of his numerous volunteer activities include organizing and leading the Gurnee Business Group since 1973; charter member of the Executive Board providing policy to Warren Assisting Youth (WAY); and a member of the board of trustees of Carthage College. One of the things Richard Welton has done that is not so well known is his service as a charter member of the library board that brought Warren-Newport Public Library to fruition. The Mayor is also one of the earliest members of the Exchange Club of Gurnee and is still active in the club. A longtime member of the Gurnee Community Church, Welton also serves on the planning committee for the new church.

The Mayor is well respected throughout Lake County and Illinois. He's a charter member of the Suburban Bus Board (PACE) 1984-present; vice president of the Illinois Municipal League 1984-present; served as president for three terms of the Lake County Municipal League and member since 1973; Lake County Storm Water Commission 1989-present; Lake County Central Water Commission Chairman 1985-present; and involved with many other organizations.

Certainly Richard Welton has given of his time, many talents and energy in a multitude of family, church, vocational and community activities. He is a very gifted person who unselfishly gives of himself for the benefit of so many in Gurnee and the immediate surrounding area.

Each year, the Gurnee Days corporation seeks nominations from the community for residents who have made a significant contribution to the community for over ten years. Gurnee Days Corporation is pleased to have such a devoted person as Mayor Richard Welton as the 2000 Gurnee Days Honoree and Parade Marshall of the annual Gurnee Days parade.

Exchange Club to again offer pig roast during Gurnee Days

By TIM O'DONNELL
Staff Reporter

As a part of this year's Gurnee Days celebration, the Breakfast Exchange Club of Gurnee will present their fourth annual Pig Roast and Beer Garden fund raiser.

The event will take place at Viking Park on Aug. 12, from 4-11:30 p.m.

"Last year, it was great. It was a lot of fun," said Lisa Goodwin, an Exchange Club member who sits on the organizing committee for the event. "This year, we're expecting even more people than in the past because there are fireworks, as well."

At the event, participants will be able to purchase pork sandwiches, corn on the cob, potato chips and cookie, to be sold as a meal or individually. The attached beer garden will offer beer, wine and non-alcoholic beverages sold by "The Village People" of Gurnee. There will also be a 50/50 raffle with the purchase of a $5 door-prize ticket. The minimum prize in the raffle will be $500.

In conjunction with the pig roast, Gurnee Days will also be holding their Millennium Celebration in the park. This means that attendees will have the chance to see live entertainment while they dine at the pig roast.

The entertainment will begin at 4:30 p.m. with Cheney and Mills, a Vaudeville-style comedy and juggling act. At 5:45 p.m., World Class Noise will take the stage to perform rhythm and blues, and soul. The night will be closed out with BBI, a Motown and classic rock band. The band will begin at 8 p.m. and play until the 9:30 p.m. fireworks show. After the fireworks, BBI will play until 10:15 p.m.

"Everything is geared toward the family," Goodwin said. "It's fun. It's a good way to meet your neighbors. And it's also for a good cause."

The money raised at the event will go towards charities that the Breakfast Exchange Club of Gurnee supports. The largest cause that the Exchange Club supports is the prevention of child abuse.

10K Race and Fun Run & Walk set

Gurnee Days has announced plans to hold the annual Gurnee Days 10K Race and 2 mile Fun Run & Walk. Both events will begin at 7 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 12.

These runs will begin and end in Viking Park and the first 250 participants will receive a free T-shirt. Trophies will be awarded for first through third place in each division, the top male and female overall and top male and female Gurnee residents for the 10K race. The event is co-sponsored by PEPSI and the Lake Forest Health Institute.

Register in advance by Aug. 9 at the Gurnee Park Dist., 4374 Grand Ave., Gurnee. Pre-registration fee is $12 and $15 the day of the race. For more information, contact the Gurnee Park Dist. at 623-7788.

Gurnee Days parade plans underway

Over 75 entries are expected to participate in this year's annual Gurnee Days parade. The parade begins at 11:30 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 13 led by the Gurnee Days Grand Marshall Mayor Richard Welton. This year's theme is "Gurnee Days Making Millennium Magic."

Trophies will be awarded in six different categories. The parade steps off at Old Grand Ave. and Greenleaf Ave. and continues west-bound down Old Grand Ave. Finishing at the Gurnee Grade School. Come out and enjoy the parade.

For additional information or to register for the parade, contact Elmer or Betty Falos at 623-7721.

Streams, wetlands to be helped through community-led efforts

The National Assoc. of Counties, the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation and the Wildlife Habitat Council today have awarded over $575,000 to 55 community-led conservation projects throughout the country. Liberty Prairie Conservancy received $10,000 from its Five Star Restoration Grant Program for a streamside restoration community-based partnerships project at Oak Openings Illinois State Nature Preserve located within the Libertyville Township Open Space. The financial support for this grant was provided by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Office of Wetlands, Oceans and Watersheds of the Office of Water, and the National Marine Fisheries Service Community-based Restoration Program. Warren Township, Lake County Youth Conservation Corp, Natural Areas Ecosystem Management and Liberty Prairie Conservancy committed an additional $29,280 funding and resources to this project.

Five Star Restoration projects involves a high degree of cooperation, with local government agencies, elected officials, community groups, businesses, schools and environmental organizations all working together to improve local water quality and restore important fish and wildlife habitats. The winning projects were selected from a competitive pool of nearly 200 applications.

The Lake County Youth Conservation Corp (YCC) will continue restoration efforts at Bull Brook within the Oak Openings Illinois State Nature Preserve to restore a 3,500 linear feet streambank corridor. The 2000 YCC crew, under supervision of Julie A. Roszkowiak, Restoration Ecologist for the Liberty Prairie Conservancy and Natural Areas Ecosystem Management, will use bioengineering methods to stabilize gullies on north and south side of the stream channel.

According to EPA's Administrator Carol M. Browner, "This important initiative demonstrates the benefits of innovation in government and the power of public-private partnerships to address environmental challenges facing our country. It brings together organizations that help educate and train at-risk youth with local businesses, citizen groups and government agencies to restore wetlands and rivers as valuable assets to communities across America."

For further information contact Julie A. Roszkowiak at 548-5989 ext. 108. She can be faxed at 548-7592 or e-mailed at jroszkowiak@libertyprairie.org.

Save the children Dollar donation campaign exclusively at T.J. Maxx

T.J. Maxx is launching its first "Dollar Donation" campaign in all stores through Aug. 13. As customers go through the registers, they are asked to help raise funds for Save the Children. By donating $1, they will receive a happy hearts donation card to sign and give back to the associate, who will hang it up in the store. Flyers about Save the Children are also available for any customer who would like more information on the organization.

In 1984, T.J. Maxx established a relationship with Save the Children to help underprivileged children in the United States. Each T.J.

Maxx store, regional office, distribution center and home office department sponsors a child, sending cards and gifts throughout the year. With these sponsorships, T.J. Maxx currently provides assistance to over 650 underprivileged children and their families nationwide.

"To build on our relationship, in August 1999 our company partnered with Save the Children to launch a line of children's apparel. Now, to continue that partnership, we are asking our customers to help raise funds for this worthwhile organization," stated T.J. Maxx company spokesperson Laura Ceryone.

In memory of Walter Koziol 1920-2000

Once in a lifetime, if we are so fortunate, we are touched by a great, gentle, loving human being. Our dad/husband/brother/grandpa/uncle/friend—Wally Koziol—was such a man. For 79 years, he was a gift on this earth. His love, humor and generosity have touched peoples' lives from Antioch to the South Pacific to Poland. Always concerned for those he knew and those he only knew needed help, he was never hesitant to lend a hand. We are certainly all better people for having known him, and a giant hole will be left in many peoples' hearts with his passing.

Wally was a man of principles, patience and kindness.
He had many passions—his family, his work, the Marines, and possibly most of all, chocolate. He loved bulldogs, Pink Panther movies, beating people at Gin Rummy, Roadrunner cartoons, video poker machines, reaching and the first snowfall of the season. He loved the people around him and the people in far away places whom he helped by sending gifts and donations to better their lives.

Though he started life simply enough in Chicago, he went on to do many great things. He was a man who never finished high school, but who had an intelligence and business sense that no school could teach. He played hard in the streets of Chicago with his brothers and his friend, John Kowalik. He traveled around the city by streetcar, and he earned money by being a caddy at a local golf course, sometimes for relatives of Al Capone. He was a good son to his Polish parents, John and Kunegunda Koziol, whom he loved deeply and a great big brother to Ted and Harry.

He joined the CCCs in his teen years, and single-handedly planted thousands of trees in Michigan, a legacy to his hard work that lives on.

Wally joined the Marine Corp. on Aug. 5, 1940 and claimed to the end how happy and proud he was to have served such a great organization with such great men. Not long after his 21st birthday, while stationed at Kaneohe in Hawaii, his base was bombed by the Japanese. The war began for the United States, and Koz, as he was known in the Marines, was sent to various South Pacific islands to build airstrips and take part in other wartime duties. Some of the best years of his life were spent in the Marines with Rush, Wes Bott, Syfer, Misovie, Sutter, Canfield, Evans, Shorter, Nichols, Delacimo and other special men. He thoroughly enjoyed the annual reunions of the Kaneohe Klippers, getting to spend time with the men he served with during World War II, Semper Fi.

In 1945, Wally married Ann Tampa whom he loved and was devoted to for over 55 years. They moved from Chicago to Milwaukee, Wis. where in 1950, his son John, named after his own father, was born. About three years later, he moved to the small farmhouse in Antioch with his wife, son, mother and father. This move was prompted because his father, who was ill, had always wanted to live in the country.

He worked selling gas appliances and range hoods. His and Ann's life changed when the Wisconsin Gas Company and Phil Arnold called in some of their distributors, Wally included, to come up with ideas on products to promote natural gas. One such product idea was the gas grill. No one thought much about putting this idea into reality, except for Wally. He left the meeting with the ambition to work on this project, and in 1961, in the back shed of his house and with the tireless support of his wife the gas barbecue and Charmglow Products was born. Wally, his wife and his brothers built the company into a large business employing many dedicated people. Thanks to the success of Charmglow, Wally was able to help many more people in need. He sponsored an annual Pro-Am Golf tournament at Bristol Oaks, Wis., benefiting the Kenosha Achievement Center. He worked at the Lions Club picnics in Antioch helping to raise money for its causes. He has always been a generous donor to the Antioch Rescue Squad and the local police department, not to mention charities aiding disabled people and homeless animals. He also donated barbecues to a number of organizations, from fire departments to children's facilities. He was always generous to the people who worked for or with him—his employees, his reps and his suppliers. Wally thoroughly enjoyed people and traveling, and his Charmglow conventions held annually all over the country were a fun-filled event.

In 1964, almost 14 years after his son was born, he and Ann welcomed their little surprise, their daughter, Nancy. She was certainly daddy's little girl, and their bond of love and devotion to each other was obvious to everyone.

After Charmglow came Modern Home Products, first to manufacture barbecue parts, then, on the insistence of those who knew him from Charmglow, to manufacture new barbecues once again. Even at 79, he was still working six days a week at the office in Antioch. He loved his business and the people who were a part of it—his brother, Ted, his nephews, Tom and George; his niece, Cathy, the people in the warehouse who worked so hard, and Gayle, Pat, Sue and Gwen in the front office who kept the business running smoothly.

In 1992, Wally and Ann's son, John married Doneva Cox in Durango, Colo. Wally loved his daughter-in-law very much and loved trying to beat her in cards. In 1994, they blessed him with his only grandson, Johnny Powell. Johnny was the light of Wally's life and at 6-years old had his grandpa taken from him far too soon.

In 1999, Wally and Ann's daughter, Nancy married Nigel Barnes from Melbourne, Australia. They became not only father-in-law and son-in-law, but also good friends. Whenever Nigel was in Antioch for a visit, he and Wally would spend most mornings talking over breakfast at the Red School Cafe.

There are so many reasons that all of us have to be thankful for having Wally in our lives. He was a warm, loving, generous man, always quick with a joke or to lend a hand. There is nothing he wouldn't do to help someone. He was kind and considerate to all those around him, and he was always enthusiastic to help support a worthy cause.

A memorial reception will be held for Wally at Bristol Oaks Country Club on Thursday, Aug. 10 beginning at 4 p.m. The Country Club is at 16801 75th St. (Hwy. 50) in Bristol, Wis. The phone number is (262) 857-2302.

In lieu of flowers, send a donation to one of Wally's favorite causes, the Humane Society or the Antioch Rescue Squad.

Wally came from a loving family of simple means, became a successful and well-respected businessman, and always treated everyone with dignity, respect and love. He taught his kids to do the same. He can never be replaced, but he will always be remembered as one of the greatest human beings all of us have ever known. We are all better people for having Wally in our lives.

Lake Forest Academy names faculty members co-headmasters

The Lake Forest Academy Board of trustees has appointed two long-time faculty members as co-headmasters for the upcoming academic year. Karl Gedge and Tom Elieff, assistant headmasters for advancement and instruction, respectively, were named co-headmasters.

The appointments follow the resignation of Tom Harvey, who had been headmaster at LFA since 1996. Earlier this month, Harvey announced that he was leaving the Academy due to recent deaths and illnesses in his and his wife's families on the east coast.

"Obviously, we are profoundly disappointed at this unhappy turn of events, and we are grateful to Tom Harvey for his contributions to the school and its legacy," said board chairman Jeffrey Neal. "Harvey's stewardship has enriched the academic culture and raised LFA's national stature."

In naming Elieff and Gedge as co-headmasters, the board essentially left in tact the management structure of the school while it conducts a year-long search for a new headmaster. Elieff and Gedge both joined the Academy in 1986. Elieff began his career as an English teacher and running coach; he went on to become, successively, the chair of the English department, dean of studies, dean of faculty and assistant headmaster for instruction. Gedge, a 1969 graduate of LFA, began his tenure as vice president of business operations and served as assistant headmaster for advancement.

Both men bring vast talent and experience to the position. Elieff earned his bachelor's degree from Brown University and a master's degree in English from Northwestern University. For the past several years, he was responsible for LFA's faculty hiring and curriculum development. Gedge earned both his bachelor's degree and master's degree in business from Babson College. A lifelong Lake Forest resident, he spent his early professional career in retail management before coming on board at the Academy. While overseeing the school's business affairs, he was largely responsible for the successful renovation of the campus' building and grounds during the 1990s. Gedge was named to the school's top fund-raising post in 1998 and since then has led a team which has raised more than $7 million toward new and renovated buildings on campus.

"Gedge and Elieff's long experience and close collaboration assure us of a smooth transition and continued fulfillment of the school's mission," said Neal. He noted that along with Elieff and Gedge, the appointment of Christopher Wheeler as assistant headmaster for enrollment management will solidify the school's leadership team. Wheeler was LFA's dean of students for six years before assuming the enrollment post this summer.

The leadership change at the Academy occurs amidst the most ambitious capital improvement campaign in the school's history. Two years ago the school built Atlas Hall, a 64-bed dormitory. Earlier this summer, an $850,000 project to replace the ice rink in MacKenzie Arena began. Next month, construction begins on a $4.5 million Fine and Performing Arts Center. Future construction plans include expansion of the athletic center, new faculty housing and renovated space for the library.

after the ZBA sent the proposal back to the board maintaining that it did not have the power to advise on the amendment's requirement to place affordable housing near rapid transit and bus stations.

The proposal looped back to the county board following the planning, building and zoning resolution granting the ZBA authority to hold the public hearing.

However, much discussion about the ordinance ensued before the public hearing resolution was voted on at the board meeting.

Board members Diana O'Kelly (R-Mundelein Dist. 10) and Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside Dist. 5) noted that more information was needed in respect to the impact the ordinance would have on rural areas and surrounding school districts.

"With the amount of time, effort and cost spent on this, will we be able to appreciate the efforts of this amendment?" questioned Carter, who said the board would be "shooting in the dark" without further scrutiny of the proposed text amendments.

"We might as well adopt this (ordinance) because it doesn't have teeth anyway," stressed David Stolman (R-Buffalo Grove Dist. 20). "This is nothing more than window dusting just to say we've adopted something. No developer will come into a project without money in the picture."

However, the amendment stipulates that incentives will be given to "qualifying" developers including partial refund of certain fees and expedited review time.

"I hope the ZBA is really sincere in trying to develop an affordable housing initiative here in Lake County," said Kyle.

"If you're not sincere in what you believe in, you will not regulate it (the ordinance)," he continued.

Ordinance proponent Robert Buhai (D-Highland Park Dist. 23) reiterated the importance of the county board's ability to handle the "ultimate resolution" if it is approved in the future.

"I don't think this board wants to be on record as being against affordable housing," he concluded.

BIKE RIDERS

sentations. Bike riders participating in this year's event will visit schools throughout northern Illinois to promote agriculture in the classroom.

"We are excited to play host to a portion of this year's trip, and my hope is we will have several riders from Lake County involved," said Farm Bureau public information director Greg Koeppen.

The ride, scheduled for Sept. 5-7, will feature a route that will lead bikers through eight counties including Lake and McHenry. The ride will begin and end at Mooseheart near Batavia.

Koeppen noted that participants do not have to complete the entire three-day trip. Riders can opt to take a more moderate route such as the second stretch of the trip that will start at Rtes. 120 and 12 in Volo and end at St. Mary's Rd. in Libertyville.

Koeppen said that fund-raiser organizers are anticipating between 50-100 riders including Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and Illinois Farm Bureau President Ron Warfield. Local dignitaries and state legislators will be invited to pedal as well.

Participants can offset the $75 registration fee along with hotel and meal expenses by the level of sponsorship collected by the individual riders. The ride is open to bike riders of all ages. Registration deadline is Aug. 28. For more information call 223-6506.

rookeries is uncommon because the birds traditionally nest in the same area for years at a time, younger animals occasionally will choose a new nesting habitat. He added that the number of nests indicate that they must have been there for two to three years.

The blue heron count has been increasing in the Forest Preserve and is currently at 104.

"We have nestings in Cuba Marsh, Almond Marsh, and now Gurnee Woods where five years ago there weren't any," Anderson said.

Career Clipboard Notes

But I don't have time to look for a Job! (Making the Time)

Last week we explored the priorities in your life. If you read that column (and worked through the exercise) you now have a list of the highest priorities in your life. The next step is to allocate the time we need to spend on these tasks each month. Here is my personal list:

1. Spiritual Growth (60 Hours)
2. My Family and Friends (70 Hours)
3. Sleep, Eating and Personal Hygiene (280 Hours)
4. My Work/Job (160 Hours)
5. My Ministry (80 Hours)
6. Serving Others (33 Hours)
7. Meeting New People (5 Hours)
8. Golf (10 Hours)
9. Music (5 Hours)
10. Cooking (5 Hours)

As you will see, this is not a science, but an approximation. There are only 720 hours in the month. Since I'm a rather organized person, I allow only ten hours for items that are not on my list of top ten items.

Job Search Intensity

This list should be an indication of the importance of your job search. If your job search made the top ten on your list it is important. If it made the top five it is very important. Time should be allocated by the priority of the task and the time that task demands. You will notice that in general the highest priorities are allocated more time. Some tasks (Sleep and work especially) require more time even though they are lower priorities than others are.

If you are reading this article you are most likely looking for more time to spend in your job search. So here are some ideas.

- Hobbies. Are you willing to give up some golf, a concert or a movie to get a different job? One caution here is that you should not give up all of the hobby time. Maybe just cut it in half.
- Cooking. If you are the person who cooks for the family, make larger batches of meals and then freeze them. Some nights you will not need to cook and you can spend that time on your job search.
- Sleep. Yes some of us need less sleep than we get. If you want to try this technique, I would start by reducing your sleep by 1/2 hour per night. That may not seem like a lot but it will give you 3.5 extra hours each week for your job search.

Wasted time. Look for any unproductive time in your life. Every hour you can find brings you one step closer to that new job. As you can see the key to the time to do a job search are the priorities in your life. How important is the job search to you? What are you willing to give up to find a great job?

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I have been working for (name withheld) for the past 5 months and recently asked my employer for a few weeks off to care for my mom's brother, who had just gotten out of the hospital. Mom could not care for him because she had to work as did my dad. My uncle has another brother and sister who both live out of state so I figured that I could handle the job. I understand there is a family leave act that was passed allowing a person the necessary time off to care for sick family member without losing your job, pay or benefits. My problem is my company called after the first day being gone and said they were letting me go. They told me the reason was due to inadequate attendance even though they knew I was caring for a sick uncle. The only thing they offered me when I left was that I could continue to pay my own insurance through their COBRA plan. My mom and I are thinking of hiring an attorney to file suit for wrongful dismissal. I know people write to you all the time with their problems, and I would appreciate whatever you could do, or any advice you could give. Thank you. J.P. - Lindenhurst

A: In speaking with the parties involved on your behalf, it became known that a 40-hour weekly attendance was not high on your list of priorities. In fact, your company had already put you under an attendance probation 6 weeks before. You may want to rethink your phone call to the lawyer. Per your former employer, 5 months working for a company does not meet the requirements of the "Family Leave Act." That's strike one! Caring for your sick uncle under the circumstances would also not fall into the guidelines of the "Family Leave Act." Strike two! According to your employer their company does not fall into the required number of employees mandatory for instituting this act. Strike three! Obviously in a time of need, one does not always know when an emergency will arise where one would need to activate this Family Leave. In your case however, the story of your uncle that no one ever heard you mention came from out of the blue. A company suffers the additional pressures in the absence of its employees. Yours came without warning and a voicemail message stating you needed the time off. It most likely occurred to your employer that while this time your heart may have been in the right place, your previous track record for reporting for your work was not. Voicemail was not the proper way to communicate your dilemma. Your employer decided that in your absence, you would be replaced...permanently. Keep in mind that while although anyone can sue anyone, winning or losing is the gamble you take. Perhaps you should save your money on legal fees since it is apparent that the company has a strong leg to stand on, based on past performance. Better you should concentrate your efforts on finding a new job to support yourself, and purchase an alarm clock that will assist you in getting to your new employer in time. Good Luck!

Pet OF THE WEEK

SABRINA

Sabrina is a young, short haired calico. She was about to be sent to a facility to be destroyed since her "time was up" in a suburban police station. Staff member there felt sorry for her, since she was such a gentle sweet cat, heard about the Assisi Animal Foundation and called us. She came to us, just beating the clock that was about to run out for her!

She is a bit shy with those she doesn't know yet, which is why she's not been selected for adoption. It's hard to compete with some of our "kids" that just demand affection and attention!

Sabrina is very well mannered, takes minimal work, and will repay a new guardian with many years of quiet companionship.

The Assisi Animal Foundation welcomes new volunteers to join our crew of caring folks who give just one or two morning hours a week... any day, to help the animals. There are lots of ways to do so, from hands on care for loving well socialized animals sharing a cheerful environment in the FIRST no kill shelter built in McHenry County. It's rewarding work that you'll be glad you started. For information on adoptions, volunteering, or programs, please call the ASSISI ANIMAL FOUNDATION at (815) 455-9411.

Our goal is to plant a forest.

Surviving cancer is an uphill battle. But it is a battle that can be won. Cancer Treatment Centers of America®/Zion at Midwestern Regional Medical Center will be hosting a Celebrate Life tree-planting ceremony to honor the courageous individuals who have claimed victory over the disease. The hospital invites each person who has reached the 5-year survival mark and their loved ones to attend the ceremony. The trees are planted just outside the hospital to serve as a constant reminder of hope. The ceremony will be held on August 11, 2000, at 11:00 am at the Midwestern Regional Medical Center. Our goal is to plant a forest.

To find out about the alternative treatment options available at Cancer Treatment Centers of America, call toll-free 1-800-FOR HELP or visit our website at www.cancercenter.com
